

DE PAUL U. WILL MEET TITANS IN SEASON'S OPENER

U. D. Band Reorganized for First Appearance

NEW DIRECTOR HEADS 50-PIECE ORGANIZATION

Gene La Barre, Formerly With Sousa, Assumes Leadership

MAJ. VAN ANTWERP IS DRILL MASTER

Under the glare of the powerful incandescent lamps of Dinan field the fifty piece Varsity Band of the University of Detroit will make its initial appearance for the season at the Detroit-Titan football clash Friday night, Sept. 27. The brilliant red and white uniforms of the bandmen will present an unusually colorful spectacle when placed upon a background of gressward, illuminated by the most powerful of lights, and surrounded by the enveloping blackness of night.

NEW POLICY ADOPTED BY NEWS OFFICIALS

Superfluous Columns Dealing With Personalities To Be Severely Curbed

MORE NEWS IS OBJECT

Lyndon O. Brown to Direct New Division of Advertising

With the advent of a new staff and new policies for the Varsity News, several important changes have been made in view of improving the university's news-of-the-week.

CHANGE SIZE

To perform this objective in the best and most pleasing manner these changes have been made. The size has been changed from that of regular tabloid dimensions, to newspaper size. This will localize the live and important news on the front page, rather than having it scattered throughout the paper. It will also make a better appearance as a news publication.

Superfluous columns containing information or remarks of purely personal value have been deleted to give place for more entertaining features and information of interest to the entire student body. This will overcome one of the chief objections to the policies of last year.

Outside of the publication itself, several changes have been made in administration of Varsity News business. The offices in room six of the Commerce and Finance building have been renovated and rearranged. A rule has been established and will be enforced that no one with the exception of members of the Varsity News and Tower staffs will be allowed in these offices without permission for business reasons. These policies will undoubtedly make for greater efficiency in producing the weeks' news.

ADVERTISING STAFF FORMED

The advertising division of publications is in charge of Lyndon O. Brown, as director of advertising. The advertising offices adjoin those of the editorial staff of publications. Students will sell advertising on a commission basis for all student or university publications. This will do away with the hit and miss advertising policy of last year.

In all, the Varsity News, under the new administration should be able to furnish the students of the University of Detroit with an accurate record of university events, with an entertaining weekly newspaper, and with an organ that should interpret the sentiment of the student body in all matters of university concern.

U. OF D. GLIDERS TAKE 1ST PRIZE IN AERIAL MEET

Craft Built by Students Wins Praise of Contest Judges

PROF. ALTMAN WAS JUDGE

Kenneth Carr Piloted Craft Against Best Fliers in U. S.

The U. of D. has zoomed right up into national glider circles. The Titan Glider Club, which designed and built its own machine, did remarkably well in the National Air Races at Cleveland during the week of August 25.

Their ship is of the primary-training type. With it they were successful in taking first place in the contest for the Aero Digest Trophy. This prize was awarded for the best performance and maximum duration of flight by the auto-towing method. Also the club took second place for the shock-cord method.

Eleven clubs were represented in these contests and gliders were flown by some of the outstanding pilots of the country including Maj. R. Landis, the war-ace, Capt. Frank Hawks, holder of the trans-continental non-stop record, Amelia Earheart, and many others.

The Titan Glider Club was represented in Cleveland by William Perfield, Kenneth Carr and Clement Ratke. The trim craft was piloted by Carr who has been showing remarkable ability in this line.

An interesting feature of the Titan glider is that its design is not copied from any blueprints of the National Glider Association, but is due to the originality of members of the club.

Professor Altman of the College of Engineering officiated as one of the judges of the National Air Races.

Those interested in gliding can see the Titan Gliders give demonstration flights at the Pontiac Airport during the week-ends.

New Dean of Men

REV. JOSEPH L. SCOTT, S. J.

FR. J. L. SCOTT IS NEW DEAN OF MEN

Former Retreat-Master and Teacher Has Taken Over Position

SUCCEEDS FR. J. MESKELL

Fr. Joseph L. Scott, S. J., of St. Stanislaus Retreat House, Cleveland, Ohio, has been appointed to the post vacated by Rev. James A. Meskell, S. J., who will become a member of University High faculty.

For the last few years, Fr. Scott has been actively engaged in mission work throughout the country, and recently conducted a retreat at Manresa. Fr. Scott comes from a family of religion, having three brothers in the Jesuit Order. Although the enrollment of the University has increased to a marked degree, Fr. Scott is well prepared to cope with any student problems which may arise, and invites the students to consult him at any time. His position as Dean of Men also makes him the spiritual moderator of the University Sodalties.

BEGIN WORK ON '29 EDITION OF "TOWER"

Plan Improvements in Art And Photography; Art Themes Presented

STAFF PLACES OPEN

Four Colors May Be Used In Decoration of New Annual

Negotiations for the art work for the 1930 edition of the "Tower", the university yearbook, were opened this week with Jahn and Ollier Company of Chicago, engravers who did last year's work. Representatives of that company met with John C. Treen, editor, in the publications offices in the Commerce and Finance building.

Several tentative art themes and sketches are now being designed in order to anticipate the completed effects.

PLANS FOUR COLORS

It is planned to publish a book in four colors provided appropriations for the yearbook will permit such expenditure as full-color plates will entail. Four color plates were used in the "Tower" of last year.

Arrangements are also being made with photographers and news sources for pictures of university events. This will insure a complete pictorial record of university life throughout the year. Work on the yearbook is getting an earlier start this year than usual, and it is planned to produce a more perfect annual than ever before published at the University of Detroit.

STAFF NOT CHOSEN

No appointments to the Tower Staff will be made until later in the year, according to Mr. Treen. A bulletin has been posted requesting

PHILOMATHIC SOCIETY ELECTS 1929 OFFICERS

R. Johnston, Veteran Debater Named President of Debate Society

36 STUDENTS AT MEETING

Ellis Duncan and Ora Labadie Made Vice-President and Secretary

Ralph Johnston, veteran forsenic warrior of the university, was elected to the presidency of the school's debating society, the Philomathic, at the club's first meeting of the year held Tuesday afternoon. Other officers who were placed in charge were Ellis Duncan, senior in the College of Arts and Science, who was named vice-president, and Ora A. Labadie, who was re-elected to the post of secretary-treasurer.

Prospects for one of the most successful years in the long history of the Philomathic seem extraordinarily bright. With the club being used as the training ground for future debaters to represent the school in the intercollegiate discussions, much stress was placed on the importance to the members of fulfilling their various appointments throughout the year.

The organization will start the year's work at the next meeting with a larger enrollment of members than ever before in its history. At the initial meeting, 36 students reported to Professor C. Baldwin Bacon, who will again act as moderator. As yet the program has not been definitely decided upon, but in all probability, another debate tournament will be held to decide the club's champion debaters for the year.

The names of the members of the winning team will be engraved on the Philomathic Cup in recognition of their victory. Last year's winners were James Frazer and Ellis Duncan.

Both Johnston and Labadie were elected to their offices without a single dissenting vote. However, the vice-presidency was not so easily decided. Duncan and Albert Nagler, a sophomore in the College of Arts and Science, were nominated for the office. After the ballots were counted, a tie was disclosed with 18 counters cast for each nominee. Flavius Brooke was nominated as a buffer candidate and on the second ballot, Duncan

DORAISMEN TRY FOR SIXTEENTH VICTORY

Fans To Be Treated to First Night Gridiron Contest When Strong De Paul Eleven Opens 1929 Football Season

DETROIT RATED HEAVY FAVORITE; CHICAGO SQUAD EAGER FOR WIN

Lead by a veteran backfield combination with Capt. Phelan and the flashy half-back "Skeets" Byers, De Paul meets the University of Detroit on Dinan Field, Friday evening, September 27, with the same determination that characterized its visit last season. It will be remembered that the Titans turned the "Blue Demons" back by a 39-0 score a year ago and are heavily favored to repeat their victory.

Against the heavier Detroit aggregation, DePaul will pit a veteran team consisting of twelve lettermen and a promising crop of sophomores. Confronting a team that is strengthened in the line—the place where DePaul was weakest last autumn, Coaches Dorais, Boeringer and Brown send a combination that is admittedly weaker. It cannot be expected that Detroit can match the big Red and White team of 1927 and '28. How good the Titans will be remains to be proven. We know that Detroit will be strong. The score of the game Friday night should serve as a barometer gauging the 1929 edition of our fighting, know that Detroit will be strong.

DEPAUL STRONGER
While the chances of DePaul winning are small, the fact remains that the Blue Demons like every team the Titans will meet this fall, are intent on beating Detroit rather than any other aggregation on their schedule.

Detroit is paying the price of winning fifteen straight contests. DePaul and all other teams on our schedule want to be the first to break the string of victories, smiling Titans.

Confronting the strongest schedule ever attempted by Detroit, Dorais will send into the contest an aggregation headed by its All-American captain, Floyd Brazill. Expecting "Snitz" Ross, fleet halfback, every man slated to start against the Blue Demons has behind him at least one year of varsity competition. However only four of the regulars who lifted Detroit to the pinnacle last year are returning. Six men were understudies on the team that swept aside all opposition.

VACHON PILOTS TITANS

This year's team will be piloted by a fine field general, Les Vachon, who has led the team to so many victories by his uncanny selection of plays. He ranks well up among the leading signal callers of the country. A great blocker, a deadly tackler, and fine receiver of forward passes, Vachon should be a fixture in the back field this season. Disregarding the added responsibility of captaining the outfit, Brazill will be there with all his old-time fire. While the responsibility

Bonfires Will Rage Thru Football Season

Freshmen Engineers Will Build First For the Tulsa Game

Within the next few weeks, an epic page in the nation's sporting history will be written on the campus of our university, for it will be on this spot that the first intercollegiate bonfire will be lit to go soaring upward to the startled skies.

It is true that bonfire burning has been indulged in on a rather haphazard scale previous to this, but it took the inspirational genius of our own sporting element to place it for the first time on an organized scale, and from now on, all campus bonfires will be built, lit, and burned according to a carefully prescribed formula.

FROSH ENGINEERS FIRST

The first bonfire will be played—pardon us—burned on Thursday evening, Oct. 10, preceding the Tulsa game. The players—pardon us again—the burners will be limited to Freshmen Engineers, under the paternal coaching of the Tech Sophs. Appropriate ceremonies, including speeches, handshakes, and presentations of floral wreaths will open the season.

The next engagement on the pyrotechnical schedule will take place on Friday evening, Nov. 1, as an eye-opener to the Marquette game. The line-up will be limited to the yearlings of the C. & F. department, tutored by their corresponding Sophomore class. An unconfirmed report states that a prominent municipal official is slated to light the first match.

- As in any organized game, a basis must be determined by which points may be awarded. As yet, the rules committee has not given its completed code of rules to the press, but reliable tipsters of the stove league report that the scoring system will run something like this:
1. For largest number of pants torn while building fire 5 pts.
 2. For most people blistered by flying sparks. . . 5 pts.
 3. For largest number of street-cars used in fire. . . 10 pts.
 4. For the most fire-engines responding to alarm 15 pts.
- Negotiations are now under way to obtain the services of the best bon-fire judges in the country to officiate at the conflagrations. It is probable that the committee will sign up Henry W. Asbestos, formerly of St. Blaise's college, who is ranked as the best bonfire judge since the days of Nero.

FR. WEITZMAN GIVEN LEAVE OF ABSENCE

To Obtain Doctor's Degree of Sociology at Washington, D. C.

WILL BE GONE ONE YEAR

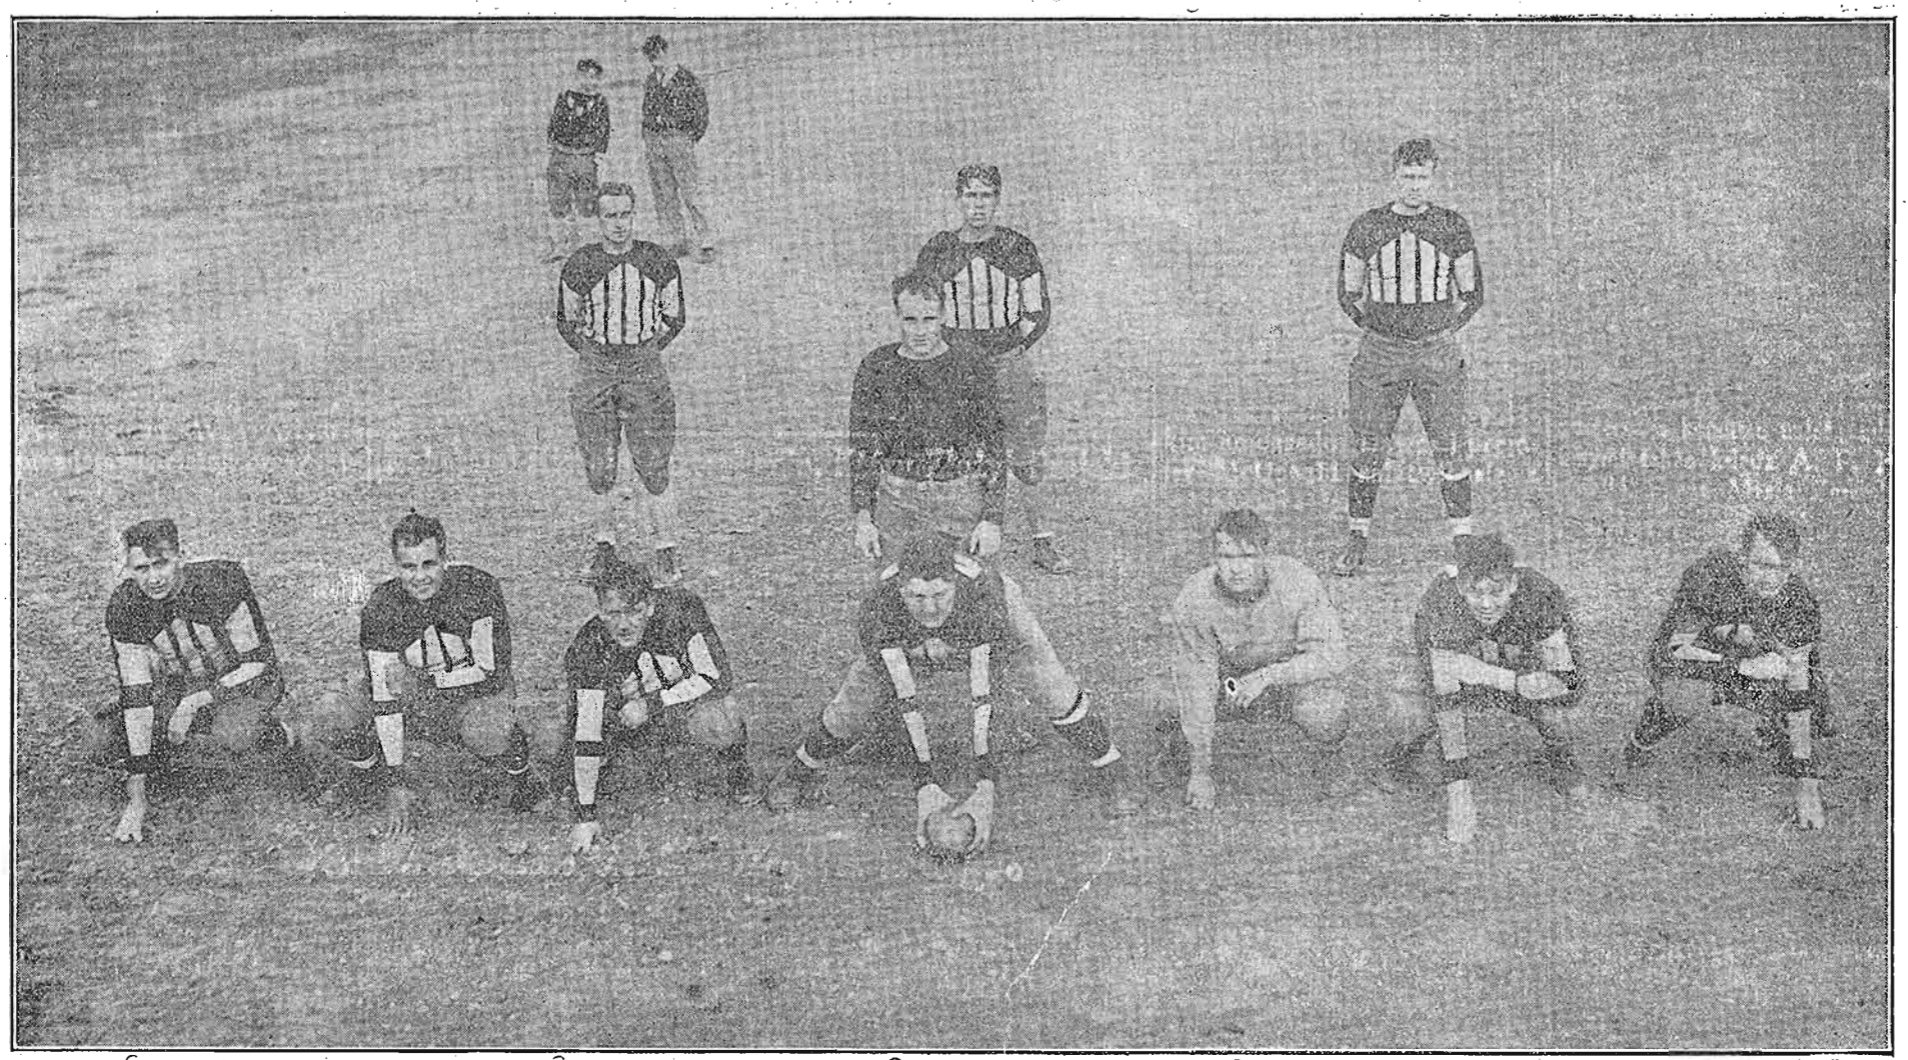

Organizer of Student Conference of St. Vincent De Paul Society

The Rev. Louis Weitzman, S.J., former instructor of sociology and religion, has been granted a year's leave of absence to further continue in his studies relative to obtaining his doctorate of philosophy in sociology.

Three years ago he organized the student conference of the St. Vincent De Paul society and was faculty moderator. Since its organization the society has flourished and grew to quite a size at the close of the last scholastic year due to the untiring efforts of its organizer. Father Weitzman according to present plans will again be on the faculty of the university at the beginning of the school year in September of 1930.

Your Opinion!

Readers of the Varsity News for the first time this year will notice that their favorite news-of-the-week has changed a great deal during the summer vacation. Not the least of these changes in make-up and in type is that of the editorial column. Of all spots in any newspaper to make interesting the aforementioned is one of the toughest. Because if the editorials are poor, no one reads them. Lots of people won't even read them if they are good.

This year the staff of the Varsity News is attempting to secure editorials of literary merit, editorials written around topics of vital interest to the students of the university. The staff wants this column to be the mouthpiece of student opinion, to truly convey the policies, ideals, and ideas of the student body.

No writer of editorials no matter how great he may be can know what student opinion on university matters is without that opinion being expressed. He might write what he thinks is the student view, but what he writes will be his own idea and not the idea of the whole.

Therefore it is important that the opinions and ideas of the student body be ascertained. But it is certainly impossible for the editors of this paper to canvass the members of the student population concerning their viewpoints. These must come from the students themselves.

The staff of the Varsity News, therefore, invites every student of the University of Detroit to contribute to its editorial page. Your views are important to us—as important as they are to you.

Because the Varsity News is NOT a publication for propaganda, nor of politics, nor of any narrow viewpoint. It is the official organ of the students of the University of Detroit.

Yea! Frosh!

As custom usually dictates, the Frosh must pay the penalty for choosing a college career. They must pay for seeking knowledge, for great is the price of glory. This price is the entertainment offered the Sophs by the Frosh. That this entertainment in the form of exertion of energy is to entertain the Sophomores only, is a false notion. It is to instill in the minds of the freshmen that college is not a joke, but an institution for intellectual advancement and so the course entails work, hard work. The Freshmen rules, which must be obeyed, were codified to create a feeling of union among the Freshmen class, not to make them an outstanding group on the campus for the curious eyes of the upper classmen to feed upon. If the first year men and women can appreciate this fact, their class will be one of the strongest that the University has ever turned out of its halls of learning. By furnishing a common ground for all new members a sense of equality can be attained and result in organizing for a successful year.

The freshmen have other duties to perform besides "pots" for sophomores. There are scholastic activities which must be uppermost in the minds of all from freshmen to seniors. There are besides these, honors to be won for the individuals of the various departments. There is also the social side of college life, particularly the Frosh dance which should hold every freshman's interest. In the past this class function has gained enviable reputation on the campus and has proven successful to the fullest measure. It is the responsibility of the present class to keep this position for their followers.

Before entering the U. of D. every freshman thoroughly looked into the school. Their presence here is appreciated by the school and the school is here to help them. However, it is up to the individual to make something of himself and to push his class to the fore. It's a tough job, so give the youngsters a "big hand" at the start.

A Marked Team

During the last weeks of the 1928 baseball season, the redoubtable George Herman "Babe" Ruth complained to the fan world at large that every team in the league seemed to try hardest to win from the Yankees. This meant the saving of the best pitchers for the New York series, and the general "bearing down" of the whole team. The great reason for this was the fact that Ruth's team was the champion and so was a "marked team."

Like the Yankees of a few years ago, our Titan football team is a champion. Every team that we will combat this year has read of our unblemished record of last year. Some of the teams we are to meet on the chalk-lined turf helped to form that same record by being victims of our powerful attack. Every school on our 1929 schedule will call its University of Detroit contest one of the feature games of its card. Should any of them succeed in downing "the great undefeated Detroit team," they will consider their season a success. Every shift in line-up, each change in formation, all press reports of the Red and White team will be watched earnestly by our rivals.

The same applies to the star of our team, Captain Lloyd Brazil. His All-American mention by Grantland Rice and other sports writers at the close of last year's season will cause him considerable publicity since the public will be interested in whether or not he can do what has rarely been done in the past, make the All-American team two years in a row. The coaches of the nine teams that the Dorais team is scheduled to meet this year all are aware of Brazil's reputation and ability and will prepare their men to stop him. On every play that a Titan quarterback calls, Brazil will be watched.

Consequently, our team and our captain are working under great handicaps for it will be all the harder to win with the opposition striving to the utmost to dethrone the champion.

Sodalities

Beside the scholastic, athletic, and social phases of school life there is the all important religious life of the college student. It has been the policy of the university in the past to see to the religious welfare of its students. For this purpose the sodalities were organized and from the records of the previous years have shown a great progress and have exerted a strong force in the life of the campus.

Each department has its sodality and its officers. These sections meet weekly on the specified days from 12:00 to 12:15 P. M. This is one of the organizations that every catholic student on the campus should be a member of regardless of any other enterprise. The meetings always cover matters of importance connected with the social as well as the spiritual life of the individual. Now is the time for very one to join at the beginning of the school year.

Co-operation

Everyone enjoys belonging to some sort of organization, the members of which have contributed something toward the betterment or toward the advancement of the school. In this sort of organization only can we take pride in acknowledging our membership. Yet what makes an organization of any kind whatsoever complimentary to the institution? The big factor in any successful venture is to have everyone pulling together for the same end. A spirit of co-operation among the several clubs, fraternities, etc., in existence here would not only help them individually but it would hold a decided advantage toward the university. It is granted, except in a few instances, that this spirit of co-operation is present, but for the most part it rests in a dormant state. The old fiery "All For One" idea could very easily be applied by the different organizations of this university—very easily and with very marked benefit.

This is the beginning of the college year and it should be the proper time for each group in the university to begin working for their organization as well as for the university—and, incidentally, for themselves. A friendly attitude towards the other societies and a willingness to work with them for a common good cannot help but reflect all the benefits of that attitude to those who put it forth.

Freshmen

There was a time when you entertained but few thoughts concerning a college career. Later on in your high school days you realized your limited abilities and lack of knowledge. Perhaps it was then that you determined to attend a university and selected the University of Detroit for your new Alma Mater.

The Varsity News wishes to take this opportunity to welcome you to the University. We wish you to understand that this publication is essentially your publication. Its purpose is to introduce you to the U. of D. and keep you informed constantly concerning student activities.

At anytime you are free to make suggestions or present new ideas to the editor. If you have any degree of journalistic ability, we will be pleased to give you an opportunity to write for this publication.

A Kansas woman who threw a rolling pin 68 feet and scored a bulls-eye is a spinster. We doubt, though, whether all the publicity she is getting out of it will bring her many proposals.

And then we have the one about the Scotchman who is encouraging his family to stick to the no-stocking fad until after Christmas.

A good education is that which gives to the body and soul all the perfection of which they are capable.—Plato.

A new stunt on the Sophs list is using the Frosh for caddies on the golf course.

FRATERNITY NEWS

By PHIL STACKPOOLE

The best fraternity man considers his fraternity to be but an opportunity for service to his University. The man who thinks his fraternity more important than his college is an honor neither to his fraternity nor to his college.

—Students Handbook, '29.

Last January the University fraternities and faculty placed in power a body known as the Inter-Fraternity Council. A member from each frat is appointed to represent his organization. The first step was to unify the rules of the various bodies, and, among the most important are the rules for eligibility, which are applicable to all fraternities. Freshmen are urged to read these rules so that they may acquaint themselves with the government of this particular organization.

Article 1—No first semester Freshman may be initiated to any fraternity.

Article 2—No student is to be taken as a pledge or an initiate except with the approval of his scholarship by the Dean of the College to which he belongs.

Article 3—If any student be forbidden to one fraternity for any reason whatsoever, he shall not be admitted to another fraternity until he has cleared himself of the objections raised by the Dean against his admission to the first fraternity, and has also been freed from every obligation to enter the first fraternity.

Article 4—No student shall be initiated into a fraternity unless such student has received:

a—A minimum of twelve hours credit earned in the preceding semester in this University, with a passing grade of at least "C" in each course constituting the said twelve hours credit, subject to the approval of the Dean of Men.

b—Or, if carrying more than 12 hours, has received an average grade of "C" for all his courses taken during the preceding semester in this University, subject to the approval of the Dean of Men.

Article 6—No student may have his credits transferred to another school, or be graduated from the University of Detroit, until he shall have satisfied his financial obligations to his fraternity.

Chi Delta Theta

The opening smoker of the Architectural fraternity was held last night at Webster Hall. This year the members of the frat maintain their headquarters at 16823 Monica. The annual initiation has been set for Oct. 6. The detailed plans of the initiation will be announced.

CAMPUS CHATTER

By MARGUERITE GAHAGAN

One advantage in hanging around long enough to be classed as a Campus institution is the privilege of dishing out the low down on one and all. During the years one is given a splendid opportunity to watch the fate of her fellow students. The shining example of last year's grads is Bill Harrington. Long hours have I watched that gentleman sleep during class when the prof's voice proved too troublesome for pleasant dreams the alumnus would turn to his other means of recreation—drawing steam line chassis. Bill is a product of the Journalism department and began his training under the guidance of John McGarry, who promised him a brilliant future. "Minnow" has come up to all expectations; he is now the high-powered head of the University publicity department.

Another grad of '29 serving his Alma Mater is Jay Maley who is working with the Alumni association. He was in the same department with Bill and helped make life merry on the old Campus. Another member of the old gang turned up during registration the other day. George Cook came out to see who was still around. He is now in the aviation game.

College seems to hold some particular appeal for many of last year's boys. Bill Maledon, former editor of the Varsity News, is staying on as an instructor in Math, while Giovanni Giovannini, described by one Frosh Co-ed as the young professor with the wonderful brown eyes, is teaching C. and F. English.

Ambition flames high among the A. and S. boys. Andy Fulgenzi is back for a post grad course and Ned Fitzpatrick is going in for Night Law.

Wanderlust struck a few others. Joe Krelklowis now helping make Broadway famous. He is playing in New York this winter. Elaine Helmer, a C. and F. Co-ed has also later. The officers of the present year are as follows: Ralph W. Boone, Pres.; George Henk, Vice-Pres.; Sidney Shelby, Secy.; Frederick Sturm, Treas.; George Brown, Conduction; Joseph Cornell, Historian.

Delta Pi Kappa

The preliminary meeting of the year was held at the residence of Ralph Johnston. The retiring and the new officers of the fraternity gathered to settle and close the books of last year. Plans were laid for the annual dance, which will be held around Halloween. Frank Jenney was appointed Chairman, and he will be assisted by the following: Ralph Boone, Decorations; Publicity, Phil Stackpoole; Music, Don Carney.

The first meeting of the year will be held at the Seward, Thursday, Sept. 26, at 8:00. The following officers, who were elected at the closing gathering of the past year will preside: Ralph Johnston, Pres.; Ralph Boone, Vice-Pres.; Don Carney, Corresponding Secretary; Joseph Starrs, Recording Secretary; Phil Stackpoole, Treasurer, and Jerry Donovan, Historian.

Theta Alpha Sigma

The opening meeting of the year will be held this evening at the Seward. At this time the plans will be laid for the dance.

Magi

The Arts and Science frat will soon hold their first meeting. The officers for the coming year will be elected. The Magi Freshman Award was merited by George Smith.

Argon

Next week the Argons will hold their first meeting under the leadership of William Storen, newly elected president. Besides Storen other men to take office for the coming administration include, James Brennan, John Clancy, Frank Quinn, and Phil Conway.

Sigma Kappa Phi

Will hold its annual installation of officers in the near future. Edward Stenger is the new meagus with Kenneth Fournier as Deputy.

Notice—Fraternities!

Fraternity news will be published in the next issue of the Varsity News. Officers of the various fraternities please appoint a delegate to communicate with the Fraternity editor. See that they get in touch with Phil Stackpoole in the Varsity News office as soon as possible.

hied herself to the East. She is at Columbia this year.

Changes may be noticed here among those who haven't graduated or left the Campus. Kummer and Donovan are Seniors. It's been a great struggle but the boys finally won out. It's not safe to say much about Mr. Andries but one must admit he is aging. The only two who seem to remain the same are Schubnell, "God's Gift to the Co-eds," and Matthew Gill, chief bone cracker of the University.

Dale Devlin and Henry Fischer have resigned the title of most verdant Frosh to a new group. Jack Mooney's summer enables him to qualify as a marathon dancer, proficient book-maker, and golfer par excellence. Florence Bernard rules the Women's League. Father Horst acquired a snitzy new pipe, and lastly fifteen Freshmen Co-eds and hordes of Frosh boys are out to do their best to make life worth living for the Sophs.

University Stock Exchange Issues Yearly Bulletin

Sophomore Haberdashers, Inc., is Best Buy On the Market

By PAUL THIELEN

Some people aren't aware that the University has a Stock Exchange. Well, it has. And the stocks listed on it are quite as valuable as those on the Detroit, Chicago, and New York Exchanges, to say nothing of the Curb Market. The University Exchange, moreover, has been in operation since 1881. This bulletin deals with its near past, present, and future activities.

On September 16th, the market threw off its midsummer slump and opened with a decided bang. A new 1,500,000 share issue of Freshman common stock, par value $15, was gobbled up immediately by certain unidentified groups, who seem optimistic as regards its future worth. Heavy selling followed on the 17th, 18th and 19th, but a revival of confidence on Friday, the 20th, sent the stock soaring to 2 3/4.

A startling rumor, thus far unfounded, was the cause of the upward movement. The Freshman Corporation, which manufactures empty wooden caps for the American Doll Company, is said to have received offers from the powerful Vigilance group, promising to fill their wooden caps with white and grey matter. This improvement on the product of the Freshman Corporation would greatly enhance the value of the heads with the doll manufacturers.

Whether or not the rumor is true, Freshman Corporation stock is an undoubted investment. Each year has seen a marvelous improvement in the assets and earnings of the company. The very fact that the powerful Vigilance bankers have taken an interest in the concern argues well for its financial soundness.

The best buy on the University Exchange at present, however, is the common $50 par stock of the Sophomore Haberdashers, Inc. This company is under the dominance of the Vigilance bankers, at the head of which is the able administrator and financial genius, Mr. Joe Lubinski. The company recently completed a city-wide advertising campaign that has already added enormously to its volume of sales. Sales of "pots", black ties, and blue shirts of the Freshman Corporation, alone, has yielded it enormous profits. It is an open secret that its board of directors will soon meet to discuss the best and most advantageous manner in which to cut a ripe $2,000,000 "melon".

With call money at 8%, reports have it that the Basement Bankers are gambling heavily on a few weak issues, in order to entice the general public into the market. We advise caution. Such dangerous speculation can end only in catastrophe.

Pulchritude Preferred stock was one of the few strong spots on the University Exchange during the summer months. Some traders are still very enthusiastic about this issue. In the past, issues like Pulchritude have proved very treacherous. Witness Cleopatra Second Investments, Pompadour Powder, and Helen of Troy Insurance.

Pulchritude has yet to pay its first dividend. Though certain junior millionaires boast of fortunes acquired in trading this stock, we can only say, "they reaped where others sowed", and, "Their gain is another's loss". Stop, look, listen, and walk around the block before investing in this quarter of the market.

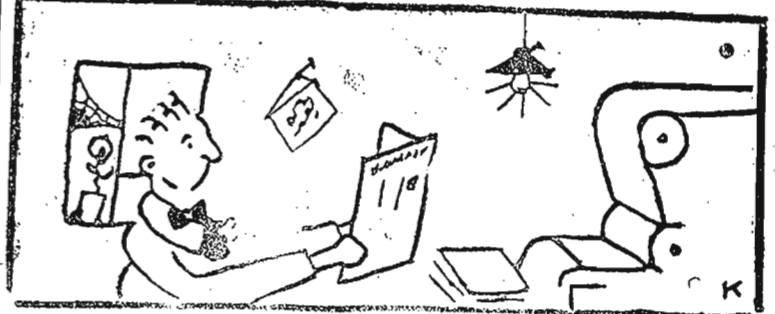

The steady rise in Junior Utilities is very encouraging. The Senior Holding Corporation recently recalled its convertible bonds of 1930, which culminated a four-year program for the liquidation of all standing debts. Senior stock is a gilt-edge standard investment.

Broker's loans are reported increased 1,000,000, to a new high of 96,000,000. It is predicted in financial circles that the loans will scale upward till January 1. Nothing but tight money is seen ahead.

MUSE OPENS PUBLICATION WITH WELL-KNOWN BANG

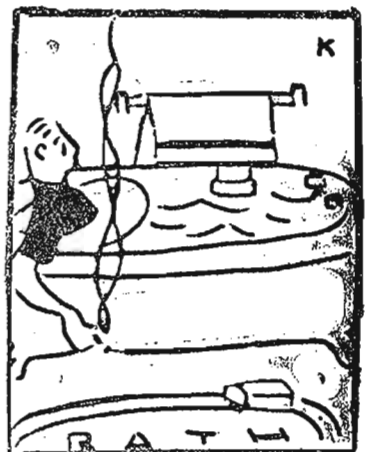

After standing in line for three days and five nights, Joseph H. Spoolwinder, of Elliptical Springs, Ark., received the first copy of the Anniversary Year issue of the Larceny Muse from the editorial offices. The paper had left the press but a moment before, and the mud was not yet dry on it. It is the intention of Mr. Spoolwinder to donate this history-making document to some worthy cause, but as yet no cause worthy enough of this signal honor has presented itself.

The Anniversary Year, as the Board of Directors of the Larceny Muse have jokingly dubbed it, receives its name from the fact that it was just eight years ago that the Larceny Muse office cat first presented the Editor with a family of three kittens.

Facilities for the publication of the Muse have been greatly increased this year by several additions to the syndicate's equipment. Among these are included three brass veneer, anti-backsplash spittoons and an off-color portrait of the Teapot Dome scandal, done in crude oil.

The motto adopted by the editorial staff of the Muse this year is, "A Muse In Every Wastebasket", and with the co-operation of our readers, we hope to attain this goal, so do your bit by buying one of our special Muse-In-Every-Wastebasket wastebaskets, which will be sent to you free of charge upon the receipt of your name and address scratched on the back of a twenty-dollar bill.

Non-Readers, Notice

Because so many of our readers in the South Sea Islands are unable to read English, with the exception of cuss-words—tish! tish!—The Larceny Muse announces its new pictorial supplement. Anyone looking at the pictures in this section who can read will be severely punished and fined $1,000.00, of which $500 will go to the editor of the Larceny Muse, $200 to the Larceny Muse editor, $100 to the Larceny Muse's editor, and $200 to the Larceny Muse in care of the editor.

After blackmailing H. Smell Limberg, big cheese man, for 20 years, with this picture, we have finally published it. Mr. Limberg is now dead, very dead. But the smell of him lingers on. The picture shows his first and last bath.

SPORTING SUPPLEMENT

Greatest Event of Year In anticipation of the host of sport-loving readers who will anxiously scan the columns of this publication for news of the World's Series, as we jokingly term it, the Board of Directors of the Larceny Muse chain of newspapers has obtained the services of Vitus P. Aqueduct, nationally notorious sporting impressario, who will broadcast his impressions of the games while seated on the 14th floor of the Hotel Accommodations in Cicero, Ill.

In addition to this, Mr. Aqueduct will write a hand-to-hand account of the struggle from his vantage point. This is in line with our policy of giving our readers the latest account of all world news. So far we have maintained our record by being later than any other publication.

CAMPUS CALAMITIES

By ELI GLOSSMAN

The election of "Dynamite Red" Johnson, of the Engineers, Joe "Hurry Up" Lubinsky, of the C. & F., and "Gentleman" Henry Annis, of the A. & S., to head their respective vigilance committees, marked the official declaration of sophomore warfare against all Freshmen.

The situation in general could be termed as all quiet on the campus front. The Frosh, as a whole, are a bunch of good sports and are taking it, without a smile. Smiling individuals are soon cured of that particular trait by the appliance of a wooden 3 by 24-inch affair, oft-times referred to as a paddle, and more commonly known to Freshmen as a very persuading argument.

In the Engineers' division the situation seems to be well in the hands of "Dynamite Red" and his iron men—(equipped with fences of nearby yards), in spite of the fact that propaganda, claimed by the paddle wielders to have been spread among the Frosh, by the seniors of the same outfit.

In the "book-keepers" and Pre-med sections, however, the idea of hazing Freshmen, and instilling the proverbial spirit into them, is evidently wearing out, as is so characteristic of these two, about this time of year. The "little angels" roam about the campus grounds without pots, blue shirts, and with a good deal of cockiness.

Among the more fortunate Frosh, who have enrolled at the C. & F. school, is a one Joe College, by name, so crowned because of his declaration of intentions—to study and not to be hazed by a bunch of merciless sophisticated superiors. This announcement was received by "Hurry-Up" Joe and his men with great enthusiasm and applause. But it seems that after a little persuasion on the latter's part, Mr. College has changed his mind, and to assure everyone that he has done so, he wears a little tag on his left lapel, stating so. For the benefit of the co-eds he is 5 ft., 6 in. tall, light blue eyes, blond, and can be very easily identified by his eagerness to pot to a Soph.

"Hurry Up" Joe, known to the Freshies as a square shooter, and a man who likes to see a first year man get to class in a hurry, is busily picking up a vigilance committee to keep the yearlings on the jump, and perhaps awaken enough spirit in the C. & F. students as a whole to take an interest in the school's goings-on.

Football Schedule Embraces Teams From Distant Sections

Tough Opposition Faced by Titans In Nearly All Contests

The University of Detroit has gone far afield in arranging a football schedule for the coming season. Teams from all sections of the country including eight different states and the District of Columbia will be met in the nine game program.

A mid western aggregation, DePaul University of Chicago, Illinois, will furnish the opposition for the opening fray. The Titans defeated them in the opener last year 39-0 and Dorais expects to repeat again this year.

Dayton University, of Dayton, Ohio, which proved such a tough outfit last fall and which was barely beaten in a mid-season tussle 7-0 will bring a strong team to Detroit. The Ohioans are without the services of "Ducky" Swan, their Hawaiian halfback who graduated this spring, but have a very formidable line. The only touchdown made through the Dayton line in the last two seasons was scored by Detroit in last year's fray.

TULSA AGAIN STRONG

Tulsa University, of Tulsa, Oklahoma, was another extremely difficult opponent to handle last year. However, on Dinan Field, away from the sweltering heat of the arid southwestern climate where the game was played while the thermometer hovered around 96 degrees, Detroit should do better than eke out a bare 19-14 victory.

A full fledged southern team, Loyola University of New Orleans, Louisiana, will be the next foe for the Doraismen. Two years ago, Detroit took a 39-0 beating down on the delta, but came back last year and evened the count by winning 27-0 on the home lot. Both teams should be evenly mated this year.

and the rubber game should prove an interesting fiasco to watch. The Golden Avalanche from Milwaukee, Wisconsin, will try to upset its old rivals when Coach Murray brings his University of Marquette eleven to Detroit. The teams have not met since 1923 when Marquette won 18-6. This will be the fourth game of the series, Marquette winning two and Detroit one as the count now stands.

FIRST GAME AWAY

Detroit will leave the home lot for the first time during the season when it travels east to meet West Virginia University at Morgantown. The Mountaineers are expected to have a very strong team this fall and should prove very hard to beat.

The only other game away from home will be the Migration Day fray against Michigan State at East Lansing. As yet State is an unproven quantity and their prospects are unknown. Jim Crowley, one of the famed Four Horsemen, is succeeding Harry Kipke, who has returned to Michigan, as coach. Crowley will bring the Notre Dame system with him and since Detroit uses the same tactics the outcome will depend on material rather than systems.

Oregon State College, which caused such a sensation when it journeyed east and administered a sound beating to New York U. last fall, is bringing an equally strong aggregation to Detroit this year. They have practically the same team with the exception of Maple, star quarterback, and are expected to furnish thrilling opposition. Besides having plenty of experience these boys from the northwest are large, heavy and rangy. Fred Schell, a tackle and letterman for the past two seasons, stands six feet five inches and weighs 225 pounds.

HILLTOPPERS ARE LAST

Georgetown University will wind up the schedule. The Hilltoppers from Washington, D. C., have a habit of presenting a formidable lineup and one of the strongest teams in the east. Lou Little, their coach, reports that they will uphold their reputation again this year. The team will be captained by Jim Mooney, All-American tackle, who was generally considered the greatest kicker in the country last season. Detroit won the game between these two schools last year in the second half by a spectacular comeback.

Whether Detroit can maintain its imposing record which now rests at 15 straight victories, against such formidable opposition, still remains to be demonstrated. It will require all the strategy and finesse which Dorais, Boeringer and Dr. Harvey Brown can muster to make this year's schedule as successful as that of last season. The 53 athletes who are trying out for the team will have to step if they expect to do as well as their predecessors.

CO-EDS PLAN SOCIAL TEA

MARY FRIEDL CHAIRMAN
Open Season With Social In League Rooms, Sunday, September 29

All co-eds and alumni of the Women's League of the University of Detroit are urged to attend the tea which will follow a short business meeting at 3 o'clock on Sunday, September 29 in the League room, Six-Mile Road and Livernois campus. At this meeting plans for the second annual dance to be held on October 25 will be made.

APPOINT CHAIRMAN

Mary Friedl, a junior in the school of Commerce and Finance has been appointed general chairman. She has not chosen her committee as yet but will be able to publish a complete list of all committees in the next issue of the Varsity News. The name, motif and decorations of the dance will also be selected during the coming week.

Everyone will remember what a success last year's affair was. The dance this year will not be a closed affair as was the case formerly and so will have a much larger scope. Not only the co-eds but all male students of all the colleges will be welcome.

PLAN POSTER CONTEST

A poster contest for the members of the League is now under way. Prizes will be offered. The women's organization hopes to make this year even more successful, financially and otherwise, than the last. Officers elected last June are as follows: president, Lucie Pequegnot; first vice-president, Florence Bernard; second vice-president, Eileen Cross; corresponding secretary, Armella Friedl; recording secretary, Vera Schulte, and treasurer, Dolly Bauser.

"I went home quite a bit under the weather last night and my wife didn't suspect a thing."
"Couldn't she smell you breath?"
"That's just it. I ran the last block home and when I got to her I was all out of breath."

PLAN BIGGEST SPORTS PROGRAM IN U'S HISTORY

New Activities Began Last Year Will Have Prominence

One of the items of paramount interest to the students of the University is its athletic program for the year. A digest of the sports that have made their appearance and bid for popularity with the students contains news of football, basketball, track, golf, hockey, fencing, and tennis.

Heading the list is football. There are current various theories concerning the impending season. Certainly such losses occasioned by the absence of Connell, Maloney, Long, Goodnow, Phelan, Ryan and Ruhlin are not to be taken lightly. They were the major part of the greatest team the University has yet brought forth. But they have left the burden of carrying on in extremely competent hands in whom the student body in particular has placed unlimited confidence.

The outlook for the coming basketball season is much brighter. The squad is practically intact and the management of it is in efficient hands. The advent of new material will help to strengthen the team and it is to be hoped that the ability of the team will not be hampered this season as it was last by a host of unforeseen difficulties.

The golf team was as excellent in their department last year as the football team was in theirs. In golf considerable merit was shown. Seven out of eight tournaments were victories and judging from the popularity of the sport and the abundance of material in the student body it will be safe to conclude that golf will be a very important sport next spring.

The prospects for another good track season are very promising. The return of all the veterans and the appearance of several promising freshmen, will give Detroit its greatest season on the cinder path. Yeager is anxious to make up for his enforced absence of last year when an injury to his ankle caused the U. of D. to withdraw from important track meets. If "Dad" Butler continues to have the same success as he had last season, and there is no reason why he should not, the University of Detroit will have an enviable track reputation.

A hockey team became a reality when Coach Boeringer issued a call for candidates last January. Although the season could not be called a success from a standpoint of victories and defeats, the fact should be recognized that last year was the start of hockey at this school, and that with support from the students it should develop into an exceedingly popular sport. The squad for next year is composed mainly of "veterans who have had expert coaching and have gained valuable experience that will serve them in good stead in future engagements.

The art of fencing was introduced to the U. of D. in the fall of 1928. Due to the efforts of Coach W. H. Caswell and Joseph Kuenz, a team worth of inter-collegiate competition was developed in a surprisingly short time. It is to be hoped that this sport will not die out, but that those with an ability to handle the foil will come forward and help up our school's fencing team in a prominent position.

The installation of tennis as a minor sport should, by all means, become an established fact. There are several tennis players of no mean note and ability in the student body, and with a little cooperation a team could be easily formed. The success of any new venture depends entirely on the enthusiasm with which the students receive it, and this influence is most weighty in the matter of sports.

ENGINE COLLEGE IN FAST STRIDE

Six New Members Added To Education Staff

The Engineering College is operating full time. With Section B yet to swing into harness, Dean Lawrence estimates that there will be about 1,400 budding engineers on the roster. The Freshman Class this year was limited to 550. Furthermore the applicant had to have a "B" average, and for this reason several hundred applications were refused, although the Frosh quota was soon filled. The Department of Aeronautical Engineering has close to 500 students, which means that the University of Detroit has the largest class of its kind in the world. One hundred students have transferred credits from reading colleges all over the country. Of this number about 25 have an A. B. degree and the majority of the rest have attended, on an average, two years in an Arts and Science course. About 50 additional students desiring transfer of credits were not admitted due to poor scholastic record. To take care of the full capacity roster, six new members have been added to the faculty. This does not include additional men in the chemistry and physics departments.

Many Ex-Titans Take Prep Coaching Posts

"Cowboy Tom" Connell Remains in U. of D. Machine By Accepting Position at High School To Aid Coach Lennox

Climaxing the most successful football year in the history of the University of Detroit is the advent of Dorais-systemed coaching staffs in not a few of Detroit's ranking high schools.

Topping the list we find Tom Connell riding the gridders at U. of D. high in his characteristic "cowboy" fashion. Coach Harry Lennox has placed Tom in charge of the backs. With the "cowboy" coaching them we look for a fine set of backs.

St. Joe's Commercial not to be outdone by the Jefferson Avenue school has placed its football destiny in the able hands of Frank Phelan. If Frank can perform coaching duties as well as he played here St. Joe's will have a fine eleven indeed.

GOODNOW AT ST. LEO'S

Nate Goodnow is sticking to the Motor City coaching St. Leo's, instilling in his pupils the varsity spirit and will to win. "Old Reliable" Nate is sure to have a strong team.

Although we do not find Ed Maloney at a Detroit high school, if we look a bit farther south we see him assisting Harry Clash, formerly of Syracuse, at Kenyon College, Gambier, Ohio. Plenty of luck to this plunging and brilliant all-around back. No doubt we will hear more of him shortly.

CHICAGO GETS LONG AND RYAN

Harvey Long and Sod Ryan assumed the Damon and Pythias act at Loyola of Chicago. Not only will they coach the linemen at Loyola but they will also cast their lot with the Chicago Bears of the professional circuit. Back to Detroit we find Bob Maniere pointing his fast-stepping Collegiate at De LaSalle towards the Redeemer game in what possibly may be called a miniature of U. of D. fracas.

St. Anthony's High intends to forge ahead into the spotlight under the able tutelage of "Chuc" Masacek, the "Jnegar" star. Catholic Central, if coaching, means anything, will make a strong bid for fame under Frank McIlhargy. Joe Friske is teaching his stuff to the Holy Name gridders and will also coach the basketball team of that school.

Bill Wagner with his preps at St. Catherine's, a likely squad with an able tutor, and Phil Schaefer making a good St. Mary's-of-Redford team better, complete the list of former U. of D. stars entering the coaching ranks.

Downtown Law School Shows Large Increase

Many Pre-Legals Take Up Preliminary Work For The Bar

On Wednesday, September 18, the freshman Law class of the University of Detroit assembled in Dinan Hall on East Jefferson marking the beginning of scholastic activity on the now-termed old campus. The first days enrollment numbered fifty-five students including four co-eds. The majority of those registered completed their pre-legal work in the Arts and Science and Commerce and Finance colleges of this university.

DEAN SPEAKS

Rev. Father McGovern S. J. Regent of the Law College introduced the frosh to many new regulations governing student activity on the non-collegiate law campus. These regulations were many and varied differing in substance and nature from those enforced on the new campus. At the first meeting of the law frosh Father McGovern's advice proved both inspiring and encouraging, and the cheery co-operative offers and suggestions from the regent will no doubt greatly aid those embarking upon a legal career. Father McGovern said that although the campus was lacking, that campus spirit was not.

FRESHMAN FACULTY

The faculty for the freshmen is composed of several local and reputable attorneys. They include

Messrs. McClear, Bray, Toy, Webber, Fallon, Parker and Wismer. The Freshman course consists of the following subjects: Domestic Relations, Practice court, personal Property, Religion, Criminal Law, Contracts, Study of Law, Criminal Procedure and Torts. Classes for the morning school are from 8:00 A. M. to 11:00 A. M. A course in Logic is offered freshmen, who lack that requirement, from 11:00 A. M. to 12:00 M. The freshman evening class is held from 5:00 P. M. to 7:00 P. M. every evening.

ELABORATE UNION

The students of the law school have been promised an adequate and satisfactory union room on the third floor of Dinan Hall. In addition a spacious lounge, elaborately decorated, is provided on the second floor. The women's league has an elaborately furnished room on the second floor.

TITAN TOPICS

By AL NAGLER

Without a doubt, the greatest concern of any student about the campus, (excepting his studies), is the manner in which the Titans will negotiate the coming grid season. To date, the wearers of the Red and White have won 15 games in a winning streak that goes back to an afternoon, in October, 1927, when a game was lost to the Ramblers of Notre Dame by a 20 to 0 score. These 15 wins have not been easy for the team has had to meet teams of the caliber of the Haskell Indians, Michigan State, Georgetown, Carnegie Tech, South Dakota State, Tulsa Loyola of New Orleans and Fordham.

The question now is: Can our team continue on this fine run of games?

According to the sports writers, who are "supposed to know it all", it is doubtful that we will go very far towards equalling our last year's mark. Grantland Rice, in an article in Collier's Magazine, writes that if any major team finishes its season undefeated this year with the extensive schedules that are now in vogue, such a record will be something of a wonder.

And to my mind, the good Mr. Rice is right. I wonder why we "better" sports writers always agree?

Again, Mr. J. B. Johnson, Jr., points out that the year 1929 has thus far been a disastrous one for the champions of the year before. The invincible Yankee baseball club was dragged from its unchallenged rung of the American League ladder, as were the Cardinals in the older baseball circuit. The great Bobby Jones was knocked off his perch as amateur golf champ. So many new records in track, swimming and aviation were established and many of the so-called champions of the boxing world have passed into oblivion. Should the year run true to form with the good game of football as it has in the brother sports, then Boston College, Georgia Tech and the University of Detroit will find their 1929 seasons not up to their liking.

Of course, this is all pre-season newspaper talk, but still there is plenty of food for thought.

If any clever student has stopped to examine the schedule of games carded for the Titans this year they will have noticed a peculiar feature that has strangely escaped publicity. There are nine teams listed to meet our grid representatives on the marked-off field of action within the next two months or so and every one of these teams comes from a different state. DePaul University is from Chicago, which is in the state of Illinois if the gangsters have not moved it into another state since we last heard. Then comes Dayton from Ohio, followed by Tulsa of Oklahoma. Loyola of New Orleans is in Louisiana, Marquette University in Milwaukee, the home of Schlitz, Pabst, Blatz and Blue Ribbon—Wisconsin; West Virginia from the supposed state and Michigan State College from East Lansing of our own dear state all follow in swift order. Next comes Oregon State from far out of the land of ex-cowboys and ex-two-gun-men. Finally, our team meets Georgetown U. from the banks of the Potomac, the representative of the District of Columbia.

EMPLOYMENT NOW UNDER DEAN OF MEN

In an effort to accommodate the ever-growing number of student applications for spare time positions, the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Detroit, recently sent out five hundred letters to Detroit business men, urging them to take advantage of this means of obtaining college men as spare time employees.

The Bureau was formerly under the care of Mr. Lester B. Kirk and Mr. Lynden O. Brown. Mr. Kirk resigned from the faculty, is now with the Standard Accident Insurance Company, while Mr. Brown is at present connected with the Advertising Department of the University.

The employment department is now under the direct supervision of Rev. Joseph Scott S. J., Dean of Men. "We are doing all we can to attempt to place the young men who already have applications for positions on file in my office, and expect to have openings for some of them, at least, in the near future," Father Scott said today. "The Dean is ably assisted by Mr. Frank Potts, a Senior in the college of Arts and Science.

writers. Bob Zupke, the superstitious mentor at Urbana, Ill., Knute Rockne and John W. Heisman are among those who know better. Gene Gunning, sports editor of the Morgantown, W. Va., Post, states in his column, "Sport Postings": "The Detroit game of November 9 bids well to be the feature of the Mountaineer schedule. The Westerners now boast a record of 15 consecutive wins and should arrive here for the W. Va. affair with 21 wins to their credit."

We hope we do, Mr. Gunning.

It looks like a tough year for the sports editors that write Big Ten news. Get a load of these names: Bueschenschuss, Ujhelyi, Kazmerchak, Wiragos and Erf of Ohio State; Magnabosco, Antonini and Hoinacki of Indiana; Lubratovitch and Ketelaar of Wisconsin; Pulkrabek, Kakela and Oja of Minnesota; Nuss-pickel and Yanuskus of Illinois; Yunevick of Purdue; Diedendorff of Chicago; and Captain Joe Truskowski of Michigan.

Boston College numbers among its grid candidates a full-fledged preacher in Rev. Fred Issaksen, who was regular center for B. U. two years ago. He is a senior in the college's school of theology and has one more year of varsity competition. . . . When the exotically exuberant rooters of Wisconsin U. won over Iowa last year, they celebrated by uprooting the goalposts at the Iowa field. If they can do this again, they will have to have plenty of pulling power for the Iowa bosses have submerged the poles in six feet of concrete to prevent another wrecking joy-making. Besides the posts are of steel, four inches thick. No wonder they challenge anyone to "try and pull them up."

And that will be all for this time.

FIRST UNION DANCE OCT. 4

To Be Held Immediately After Dayton Game at Gesu Hall

EXPECT MANY GUESTS

The first Union Dance of the year will be held at Gesu Hall, Oct. 4, immediately following the Dayton game, according to an announcement from the Union Board this week.

This will be the first of the regular annual series of Union Dances which were held with such success in previous years. Arrangements have been made with a local orchestra of repute to furnish music. The admission is one dollar per couple and dancing will last until one o'clock.

EXPECT LARGE ATTENDANCE

It is expected that this dance will draw a large attendance, because of the large number of students who will gather for the game together with their guests. If this dance proves a success, plans will be made for dances following future games played at night.

LIGHTS TO BURN IN STADIUM FOR DE PAUL SET-TO

Giant Cahill Projectors to Flood Playing Field With Light

56,000 WATTS PRODUCED

Night Game Proves Highly Successful In All Trials

Football enthusiasts will be treated to their first opportunity to witness a real football game played at night when the 1929 edition of the University of Detroit Titans go on the field for the first game of the season, that against De Paul U. of Chicago Friday evening at Dinan Field.

The playing of the grand old game in the light of multi-watt floodlights is the latest development of the sport. In all sections of the country reports of coming nocturnal grid contests are being written. At the present time, the best lighting system of any field in operation is at Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa, where twenty giant projectors throw a total of 40,000 watts of light down upon the playing field. Some of the other schools who boast of apparatus to play the after-twilight game are Oklahoma A. and M., Creighton, Washington University at St. Louis, University of Cincinnati, Occidental, Los Angeles, Haskell, Oklahoma City University, Washburn, Hastings, Nebraska, University of North Dakota, Loyola of New Orleans, Syracuse University, Dayton University and Marquette University.

56,000 WATTS PRODUCED

The Drake field will be the best-lighted field until our own stadium is flooded with artificial light Friday night. While Dinan Field is equipped after the fashion of the Drake Stadium since Coach Dorais decided to enter the night football game after seeing the latter school's hook-up in operation, the mentor of Titan elevens has enlarged upon the Drake system. He has installed 28 projectors instead of 20 as at Drake bringing the total wattage produced up to 56,000.

Night football first came to be known about twenty-five years ago when Michigan and Wisconsin met under the rays of floodlights. . . . in a tent. A terrific storm averted playing the game on the date set and so it was staged in a building called "The Coliseum," a building which was nothing more than a large tent. Since then, the night football project has been vastly improved, greatly through the work of George F. Cahill of New York City.

Cahill has long had as his hobby holding sport events at night. Recently he invented the Cahill Night Projector which is now in use at our field and as far as known at every field equipped for nocturnal contests. These send the rays of two 1,000 watt bulbs down upon the playing area and since they are placed on 50 feet poles on both sides of the field, sufficient light is obtained to play games that were once thought to be strictly day affairs. The crossing of the lights prevent the forming of shadows.

AID TO GAME

There are many justifications to the changing of the early game playing time from Saturday afternoon to either Friday or Saturday evening. First of all, the man or woman who has been forced to miss the games because he had to work on the afternoon set for the battle will have a chance to come. Again, the weather conditions at the start of the season are rarely right for good football on an afternoon. Either the day is blistering hot or there is a rain to cool off the atmosphere. No team can play its best football on a torrid afternoon as was shown at Tulsa last year when our team was so weakened by the 96 degree heat. On the other hand, fall evenings are practically ideal for grid games.

However, no matter how many valid justifications for the change that may be given, when it all comes down to the final analysis, the great growth of night football is due to the desire to draw more spectators. The fact that so many institutions are to play under the electric light projectors indicates that gate receipts have shown an increase at night games. Whether this is because of the novelty, or is due, as claimed, to the fact that many who love football and are obliged to work on Saturday afternoons, avail themselves of the opportunity to go to the games, no one knows. But it stands that the people have shown that they want night football and it is only proper that the University as one of the leaders in the fall sport should cater to its patrons.

GLARE ELIMINATED

It is said that a football field properly illuminated gives the effect of a huge stage and a virtue of the departure is said to lie in the fact that just as a theater audience has its eyes drawn to the lighted stage while it sits in darkness, so a football crowd's attention is never detracted from the gridiron.

The glare of the lights is scientifically eliminated as are the shadows by the crossing and blending of the rays. The players are helped out by the use of a white ball. Many of the campus critics have spoken of the fact that a ball could be kicked over the region of the light but with the painted ball in use, the players will not lose sight of the oval at any time.

One proof of the popularity of night football was presented to the sports world by Transylvania College, a small school in Kentucky. This institution played Bethel College on an electrically lighted field to open the Southern football season last week. It was the first night game of football played in the state. Prior to this game, the opening game crowd at Transylvania totaled about 500 spectators. At the Bethel contest more than 5,000 paid admissions to more than pay for the cost of erecting the lighting equipment in the first game that it was used. Incidentally, the home team won by the lopsided score of 51 to 0.

Whether or not the same will happen Friday night remains to be seen, but if the advance ticket sale for the De Paul game can be used as any criterion, there can be no doubt as to the fact that Dinan Field will be filled for our opener. Furthermore, Coach Dorais expects the coaches of the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association to witness the game. It is merely a coincidence, but it may mean something.

BIDS ARE TAKEN ON WIND TUNNEL

New Addition Is Planned For Aeronautical Department Of Engine School

WILL SPAN SIX FEET

Plans for the new Aerodynamical Laboratory to be used by the aero students have been completed, and are receiving considerable attention by several contractors who are bidding for the job.

The wind tunnel will be able to carry models of six foot wing span or approximately 1-1/2 to 1-1/4 full size. It is of the return passage type, the air being driven through the tube at varying speeds up to 125 M. P. H. by a 16 foot four bladed propeller powered by a 250 H. P. motor.

In conjunction with the wind tunnel proper there will be offices, computing rooms, model airplane shop, machine shop and all the accessories necessary to the study of the models which so accurately forecast the performance of proposed aeroplanes.

The equipment was designed by the aeronautical department which also made a scale model of the tunnel. This reproduction was one of the interesting "working exhibitions" at the last Aircraft Show in Detroit last spring.

Claude Heithaus Visits University

Mr. Claude H. Heithaus, S. J., former moderator of the university publications, made a short visit to the university last June. During his short stay he was entertained at a dinner at the Fort Shelby hotel, by a small group of friends and former students. Mr. Heithaus left Detroit June 27.

BEGIN WORK ON '29 EDITION OF "TOWER"

(Continued from Page 1). applicants for places on the Tower editorial staff to call at the publications offices for interviews. The staff will be chosen later from these applications.

Publication this year will be run on a larger scale due to the increased enrollment of students. Whereas approximately 3,000 books were published last year, this year's total will probably reach nearly 1,000 more.

The graduation or departure of members of last year's journalistic staff leaves many places to be filled with new talent this year. Those interested should apply at once to the Tower office in Room 5, Commerce and Finance building.

We Take Issue With Mr. Joe Godfrey, Jr.

Figures Don't Lie—And so Our Point is Proven. Perhaps?

By RALPH C. JOHNSTON

The great and benevolent brotherhood of second-guessers and alibi artists annually furnish American public with 68.3% of their most hearty laughs, guffaws and snickers. In other words sports writers are a great and un-failing source of humor.

Joe Godfrey, Jr., is the official court jester and sports editor of no less a publication than "College Humor". Joe is a nationally famous sports writer and has predicted that the score of the Detroit-DePaul pigskin clash will end with a 19 to 6 score in favor of the Titans. Since I am neither nationally famous nor a sports writer I cannot agree. When the lights are turned out on Dinan field Friday night the score should be 32 to 0 or 39 to 6 in favor of the Titans. In view of the fact that these predictions disagree by a mere margin of 20 points perhaps some explanation is necessary.

Last year the Thundering Titans defeated DePaul by 39 points and as far as can be determined DePaul is not a great deal stronger this year than they were last season. However the Titans should be one touchdown weaker than the famous machine of '28, thus accounting for my first guess of 32 to 0. If DePaul scores a touchdown to make 6 points they will probably resort to passing and consequently play a more "open game" thus giving the Titans an opportunity to score another 7 points making the final figures read 39 to 6.

These predictions are based on the fact that the Titan scoring strength in the backfield has not been seriously affected by graduation. Undoubtedly we will miss the one and only Captain "Cowboy" Connell and the peerless plunger of forward walls "Big Ed" Maloney, but there are no less than six promising Sophomores to replace these old stars. Captain Lloyd Brazil along with Les Vachon, Bill Storen, and Snitz Ross make a great combination and will worry opposing linemen no end.

Another highly important factor that cannot be overlooked is, reserve strength in the backfield. Last year the team looked unbeatable with the Cowboy, Braz, Big Ed, and Les in the backfield, but when these gridiron greats were taken out for a rest the team lost all of its scoring punch. The '29 season promises to be different in this respect. If Coach Dorais decides to give his first string backfield a rest he has some great players on the bench. For example, a combination of Parsaca, Berg, O'Neil and Zettel could be inserted in the lineup and the Titans would still have teeth in which to bite. In the meantime Mohardt, Maniere and others will be waiting on the bench ready to gallop out and show their stuff.

And now comes my alibi in case my predictions run amuck. Dorais and the board of strategy may be content to win the DePaul game by a small margin and take the opportunity of trying out a large majority of the squad in action. There is a long tough schedule ahead and these opening games offer a golden opportunity to test some of the promising but green material.

PAMPHLET RACK AID TO STUDENTS

1,000 New Booklets Received By Student Pamphlet Committee

The smart student this year will look upon the pamphlet stand as his little library and use the booklets as a necessary supplement to his college course.

These little books are the product of learned scholars and scientists who have made a life study of their subject. They give you in a few small pages—about 15 minutes reading time—the essential points of the subject so that you are at least able to discuss the matter intelligently when occasion demands.

However when some doubt arises in your mind as to the meaning of some vital question of the day or a controversy in the history of the Church or a point in your religion, look in the pamphlet racks. If you cannot find your answer, drop a note in the coin slot and your request will be given prompt attention.

One thousand new booklets have been received by the Student Pamphlet Committee and beginning next Monday, a complete new offering will be made at five cents each. Every Monday thereafter five new pamphlets will be offered. Last year the students bought 500 booklets each month and now that the literary tastes of the student body has been definitely ascertained, a greater demand is expected.

PROF. L. K. KIRK LEAVES SCHOOL

Head of Employment Bureau Takes Position With Insurance Co.

The closing of school in June, saw the departure of Lester K. Kirk, professor of Statistics and Head of the Students Employment Bureau. He has accepted a position with the Standard Accident Insurance Co. of Detroit, as Special Statistical Cost Analyst. Mr. Kirk has been connected with the University for the past four years, two years on the old campus and the remaining two on the six mile road. In this short time he had placed himself high in the esteem of all the students he encountered. For this reason it has been a surprise and a regret to all that he is no longer seen about the campus.

G. AND F. SODALITY ELECTS OFFICERS

The first regular meeting of the Sodality of Blessed Virgin Mary was held by the section A & B. Engineers on Sept. 13, under the auspices of Father Scott, the new dean of men. Officers elected were Lawrence Riley, Prefect; Wm. Murphy, first assistant; P. J. Bowers, second assistant; E. V. Hogan, secretary, and T. C. Davis, treasurer. There were 125 students present.

MEETINGS SCHEDULED

The first meeting of each of the other colleges is scheduled to take place as follows, A & S, 12 o'clock noon to 12:15 on Tuesday, October 1; C & F (day), 12 noon to 12:15 Wednesday, October 2.

Father Scott invites all Christian students to attend. He will present an oral invitation to the individual colleges sometime in the very near future.

UNIVERSITY WILL BOAST STRONG '29 DEBATE TEAM

Schedule May Include Famous Oxford University of England

FORMER STARS ARE BACK

Mr. C. Baldwin Bacon, head of the department of Public Speaking and Debating, announces that the schedule for the University debating team has not as yet taken definite shape. Letters from Fordham, Florida, and Missouri universities, and from Cambridge, England, have been received and are being carefully considered. With a few exceptions, the schedule this year will follow closely that of last year.

What topics to debate Mr. Bacon has not decided. He intends, however, to pick one subject from those chosen by the Pi Kappa, the debating society which controls the Middle West.

Many of last year's men, among them James Britt, Ed Monaghan, Joe Powers, and Ben Newton, will debate again this season. Much good material is being recruited from among the ranks of freshmen and former members of other colleges.

Ralph Johnston is also back. Ralph, for the information of newcomers is one of the star debaters of the University. He has won both the Skinner and Oratory prize. Last year he represented the State of Michigan in the semi-finals of the national constitutional contest.

The debating class will meet on Mondays, Thursdays, and Fridays, at 12 o'clock.

EDITOR APPOINTS VETS TO STRENGTHEN STAFF

With the advent of a new school year, several changes in the personnel of the Varsity News staff have been made. Clarence J. Kummer, who was appointed managing editor at the close of the last term, has resigned his post, because of other duties interfering with the work this position demands. John C. Green, editor of the 1930 Tower, has been promoted to take over the job of managing editor. Kummer has been made an assistant editor.

Ralph C. Johnston, who has wide experience on university publications and who headed the staff of the '29 Tower has been appointed to the position of news editor. To assist the managerial staff several new reporters have been added to the roster.

CO-ED CLUB READY TO START SOCIAL SEASON

The Sophomore co-eds are making plans for a luncheon to be given on Thursday at 1:00 o'clock at the Chinese Princess. They will have as their guests all of the Freshman co-eds and will endeavor to extend a hearty welcome to them. After the luncheon a meeting of the Frosh Co-ed Club will be held and the Freshman girls will be invited to join.

New Course In Management

Industrial management has long been recognized as a stumbling block in modern production. To prepare the young engineer for this phase of his work a new course leading to degrees in Industrial Engineering has been added to the curriculum of the Junior Engineers.

This course does not parallel any courses or subjects given in other colleges of the university. It has been indorsed and highly approved of by a number of the chief executives in Detroit's industry.

Dr. Graffe and Professor James will handle the work in this department for the present, while additional men will be used for the seniors next year.

That Curious Reporter

By BAYARD KURTH

Question asked: What do you think about night football?

Joe Powers, Freshman Law: "I think it will cost the boys the price of an extra ticket because now that your girlfriends will sure want to go."

Leo Andries, Senior Arts and Science: "It's a good idea. I think it will draw a bigger crowd, not only because more people will be free to see the games, but also because of the novelty of the thing."

James Troester, Junior Arts and Science: "If the Athletic Committee wants to be sure that the student body will be entertained between halves, I suggest that they turn off the lights."

Joe Starrs, Senior Arts and Science: "No doubt the novelty will attract a large crowd, but the brand of football displayed by Detroit will always be the main drawing card."

Jerry Donovan, Senior Arts and Science: "It really makes very little difference because most of the spectators will be in the dark about the game any way."

Scott Howard, Senior Commerce and Finance: "I don't know what to think."

Constance Maier, Business Manager of Publications: "I think it ought to be very entertaining, it will be interesting for the first game anyway."

UNION TACKLES YEAR'S PROBLEMS

Improved Union Buildings Contemplated For Near Future

SEEK OPERA BACKERS

Union Dances Will Continue As Part of Union's Activity

Activities of the Union began this year with a meeting of the Union Board to discuss general business. The meeting was called by Nathan Brooks Goodnow, president.

Among the important problems discussed was the annual Union Opera. Plans are under way for raising of funds to back the 1929-1930 production. Mr. Goodnow refused to comment on the matter when interviewed this week, but declared that no further plans for an opera would be made until this problem had been removed.

TO IMPROVE BUILDINGS

Various improvements in the Union buildings have been made, according to the president, particularly in the downtown branch which has been badly in need of repairs and facilities. The Jefferson avenue house has been tentatively named the Southern Branch of the Detroit Union.

Edward Stenger has been retained again this year as manager of the Union House on the northern campus. Entertainments provided for students in this house are pool, cards, piano and radio.

WILL HOLD DANCES

A program of Union Dances will be continued this year, Mr. Goodnow said, as well as other traditional Union activities.

UNIVERSITY ALUMNUS TO ADDRESS STUDENTS

Rev. Geo. Dertinger S. J., a graduate of the University, will address the students in the chapel today at noon on the subject of the Jesuit Missions. Fr. Dertinger received his degree from the College of Arts and Science in 1914. He was stationed at Toledo, Ohio, last year and is now enroute to Patna, India, to take up the work among the natives. There will be no collection.

REPORT RECORD ROSTER FOR '29

Approximately 3,500 Enroll For 1929; Ten Per Cent Over Last Year

1,300 ENGINEERS CARDED

All Colleges Show Increase; Night and Law Schools Also Gain

Attendance at the University of Detroit reaches a new high record according to advance information from Miss Florence Donohue, registrar. It is expected that enrollment this year will equal increases of any previous year in the history of the university.

Opening with an approximate total of 3,500, the University of Detroit has at present more students enrolled than at any other time in its existence. This represents an increase of more than 10 per cent over last year's enrollment.

Again the College of Engineering has the largest total with over 1,300 students now registered. Of these 550 are freshmen.

600 IN ARTS COLLEGE

In the College of Arts and Science the student total will probably run close to the 600 mark. Already 561 students have been individually listed. This includes 255 Freshmen, 145 Sophomores, 70 Juniors and 45 Seniors. There are also 9 unclassified students.

With a large increase over the enrollment of last year the College of Commerce and Finance opens with 530 students accounted for. There are 255 Freshmen, 148 Sophomores, 70 Juniors, 47 Seniors, and 13 Unclassified students.

JEFFERSON SHOWS GAIN

A large enrollment is estimated for the College of Law on the Jefferson Avenue campus. Over 200 students have been registered.

Registration for classes in the School of Night Commerce and Finance began this week and will continue 'till Sept. 29th. Classes begin lected for the other tackle berth. He is the hardest man to move out of position on the squad and should fit into the regular lineup.

YOUNG AND NAVIN ENDS

With Young and Navin on the flanks, provided the latter can shake the injury jinx that has followed him ever since his matriculation at Detroit, should fill the expected requirements. Both have two years experience and have always been close upon the heels of men considered as regulars. Young was a regular in 1927, but due to a hip dislocation, never reached his top form last season.

Detroit's main weakness does not lie in its ability to put a good team on the field, but in its inability to all the replacements. For the most part its substitutes are untried candidates. Whether these men will shape up as expected remains to be seen. However, such high school stars as Rocky Parsaca, Bill O'Neil, Harold Schimmer, John Hackett, and Ignatius Duggan are available for use on the Varsity. All bear reputations, but at present they lack the most necessary attribute—experience.

Veteran reserve material is very scarce. There are only a few old timers remaining, in fact they can almost be counted on the fingers of one hand. Included among the cool heads that can be put into the game are "Bud" Zettle, full-back; Frank Kenny, guard; Nell Brown, end; Tony Petz, center; Anthony Nader, guard; Ed Harbour and Ryan Mullins, quarter-backs. To this list, Art Massucci, who should see considerable service provided his elbow injury heals sufficiently to warrant his playing, may be added.
