

BANQUET PLANNED TO HONOR FOOTBALL TEAM

Annual Dinner Sponsored By Delta Sigma Pi Fraternity To Be Given in Recognition of Gridiron Squad and Coaches at Book-Cadillac

SEVERAL NOTABLES INCLUDED AMONG GUESTS

Under the auspices of Delta Sigma Pi, the fourth annual testimonial banquet honoring the Titan football squad and coaches will be held Thursday evening, Dec. 16, in the Main Ballroom of the Book Cadillac. Assurance of the greatest fete since the event became an annual affair is indicated in the arrangements already completed.

State, city, and college notables are included among the banquet's guests of honor, besides the varsity squad, the Freshmen squad, the coaching staff, the band, newspapermen, and members of the faculty. The principal speaker has not been selected as yet, and will be announced next week.

OPEN TO PUBLIC

This year's banquet, which is open to the public, has many objectives. Primarily it will be a worthy tribute to the gridmen of U. of D., and to the coaching corps.

Besides this it will afford the usual opportunity to elect next year's football captain and to award the varsity "D" to members of the squad. The loyalty award, a gold watch, given annually to the Titan gridders judged the most inspiring to the team, will also be presented at the banquet. Last year Lester Vachon, quarterback, received the award.

The Smead trophy, offered this year by Alpha Epsilon Pi to the winner of the annual State-Detroit grid battles, will be presented to Coach Dorais for six months' possession, after which Coach Crowley of State will take possession for the balance of the year. This arrangement was necessary because of the scoreless tie game played by the two rivals this fall.

MANY ADDRESSES

Other features of the evening's program include addresses by Rev. John P. McNichols, S.J., president of the university, Coach Dorais, Captain Bill Storen, the captain-elect, and several others to be announced later. Movies of numerous traditional contests, from the Notre Dame game in 1927 to the present season inclusive, will be shown.

Tickets for this event are selling rapidly, and at the present rate this year's banquet is expected to attract more than the record attendance of five hundred last year. Several organizations of the university have already reserved tables.

TICKETS AVAILABLE

Since the testimonial banquet is open to the public, tickets have been placed on sale at the Peter Pan Restaurant, the MacComber-Smith offices (General Motors building), and at Clem Butler's office in the Cadillac Square building. The tickets may also be purchased from members of the Delta Sigma Pi fraternity, sponsors of the banquet. Five dollars per person is the charge.

CONFERENCE TO BE CALLED SOON

Dean Lawrence Will Meet With Industrial Leaders in Near Future

TO SOLVE JOB PROBLEM

During the past week, Dean Russell Lawrence of the College of Engineering revealed plans for a conference of industrial officials from the largest plants in the city.

If present plans materialize, the conference will be called the Foremen's Employment Conference. It will meet primarily to discuss problems commonly known in industry, and problems occurring in the relation to student employment in their own plants. This will be especially apt, as most of these officials employ students of the university, who are working on the co-operative plan.

ADVISORY BOARD

The conference is planning to act as an advisory board to the class of minor executives, which is proving so successful. There are about twenty-five men planning to attend the conference, which will hold its first meeting in the near future. Their ranks include presidents, plant managers, departmental managers, and superintendents, drawn from leading Detroit industries.

According to Dean Lawrence, it is planned to make the meetings of the organization of an interesting and informal nature.

BRIDGE DINNER GREAT SUCCESS

Party Given By Associated Law Classes is Enjoyed By Many

On Saturday evening, November 29, the associated law classes, gave a bridge dinner in Gesu hall. Approximately 250 people attended the affair. The committee, under the direction of Miss Marie Bunetta, served a bountiful dinner of roast Virginia ham and sweet potatoes.

Mr. Anhut was toastmaster and introduced Rev. John P. McNichols, S.J., president of the University of Detroit, Father McGovern, and members of the judiciary, including Judges Homer Ferguson, Guy Miller, John V. Brennan, and former Judge O'Brien. All of the speakers stressed the need of books for the use of the law students. Incidentally each one mentioned the courage of the Titans in the afternoon in playing so well under the adverse weather conditions.

MUSIC PROVIDED

The school songs were led by Eddie McGrath who also sang a little selection of his own. Music was provided during the dinner by an orchestra picked from the Varsity band.

The guests afterwards played bridge until 10.

Frosh Basketball Team to Begin Practice

Ban Butler Named Head-Coach of Yearling Cage Squad; Arranges Schedule

All Freshman basketballers are requested to report at Holy Redeemer gym Wednesday, this week, at 5:00 p. m. The time of regular practice has not been decided, but will probably be at a time suitable to all candidates. This is the first organized Freshman basketball team at the university.

Ban Butler has been appointed head coach, but his assistants have not been listed, as yet.

GRIDDERS REPORT

Among the gridders who will strive for positions on the yearling quintet are: Pape, Marshessau, Thorne, Striski and Loyer. Striski, who was a member of the crack Assumption High outfit last year, is considered a fine prospect while Thorne, who made an enviable prep record, has recovered from the injuries that kept him on the bench during the football season; both are expected to make strong bids for berths on the cage team.

The Frosh will play a preliminary game before each home varsity contest, so their prowess and abilities will not be kept in the dark. In addition to this, efforts are being made to arrange for several trips.

Fathers of Two Pupils Succumb

Joseph Engelman, of New Baltimore, Michigan, father of Elmer Engelman, a Section A Engineer Frosh, died suddenly at his home last Wednesday of a stroke of apoplexy. Engelman has already announced that he will have to discontinue his studies. Father Scott said Mass for the repose of Mr. Engelman's soul on Tuesday, December 2. The members of Elmer's class and all the engineering department wish to extend their heartfelt sympathy to him and the members of his family.

Frank J. Schlyker, 52, father of Francis Schlyker, Senior A. and S. student, was accidentally shot and killed last Friday. Funeral services were held Tuesday at St. Mary's of Royal Oak. Mrs. Schlyker and five children, of whom Francis is the oldest survive him. They live at 52 Oakdale, Pleasant Ridge.

Sorority Establishes 1931 License Bureau

The Eta Zeta Sigma Sorority has established a title and license service bureau at Orbit's Ford Sales and Service, at the corner of Livernois and Six Mile Road.

Under the direction of Dolly Bauer and Rosella Peltier, the sorority will secure your license plates, and transfer titles. There will be a notary there to give this service.

Why spend hours in line waiting at the State License Bureau?

The bureau will be open from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. Girls will be stationed on the downtown campus to accommodate the Law and Night C. & F. students.

See Sorority members for further information.

25 MEMBERS OF SQUAD TO MAKE LOYOLA TRIP

Titans Will Battle Team That Boasts of Only One Defeat in Nine Starts; Wolves Have Decisive Victory Over St. Louis

SOUTHERNERS NOTED FOR AERIAL ATTACK

Tomorrow morning at 7:15 the University of Detroit football team, the Rev. John P. McNichols, S. J., Head Coach Charles Emile Dorais, Assistant Coach "Bud" Boeringer, Trainer "Dad" Butler and Manager Dale Devlin, will embark for New Orleans, Louisiana.

A big task lies ahead of the smiting Titans when they engage the Wolfpack from Loyola University. Both teams will be concluding their 1930 schedules, but the U. of D. grid warriors facing a long journey will be called upon to battle a team that always plays its best brand of football on its own gridiron and boasts of only one defeat in nine starts.

Both teams will consider their schedules successful if either one returns victor this Saturday afternoon. Detroit with five victories, two scoreless ties, and two defeats, will feel satisfied if it conquers the strongest member of the Southern Intercollegiate Conference, while Loyola will attempt to even matters in the fourth game of its football relations. The Wolfpack will be striving for its second victory for the Titans already have two wins to their credit.

LOSE BUT ONE

Loyola has scored 209 points to its opponents' 46 while winning eight games and losing only one, to the powerful Oglethorpe eleven, 19-0. Loyola's scores range from 7 to 33 points in wins over Louisiana, 31-7, Louisiana Tech, 26-0, Daniel Baker, 39-0, Loyola, of Chicago, 25-0, St. Xavier, 27-6, Butler, 33-0, St. Louis, 14-7, and Iowa State, 14-7. Incidentally, Iowa State received their 17th consecutive defeat by Loyola last Saturday and the week before the State Teachers lost to Grinnell, 12-0.

The Loyola Wolfpack is coached by Clark D. Shaughnessy, former Minnesota star, and assistants William Moore, former "galloping ghost" of 1926, '27, and '28 at Loyola University, and Junior Lopez, ambi-dextrous quarterback of the 1929 team.

PASSING ATTACK

The Southern eleven is noted for its powerful aerial attack, and many of its games this season were won by this method of attack. Even though Coach Shaughnessy did lose a fock of 1929 stars he has built up an aggregation from his fine Sophomore material and the result is that it is considered one of the strongest teams in the South. The line possesses both weight and versatility. Louis Peskin, a 190-pounder and the best defense man on the team, plays left end and he is flanked on the right by Bob Smith, of Grand Couleau, a converted tackle.

The tackle positions are filled by Marvin Chachere, a 188-pounder, and Clem Sehart, who tips the scales at 195. Giordano and "Ike" Favalora have proven a fine pair of guards during Loyola's progress to a successful football season. The center of the Wolfpack line has been well taken care of by an Irishman, Bill Flynn, 196 pounds of bones and muscle from Beaumont, Texas.

Two Societies Are Reinstated By Board

Co-Ed Club and Phi Upsilon Comply With Board Regulations

As a result of the meeting of the Faculty Board on Student Organizations at which several matters of timely importance were discussed, the following notices are to be made public. The two organizations suspended for failure to comply with the regulations of the Board are reinstated. They are the Co-ed Club and Phi Upsilon fraternity.

One fraternity, Epsilon Sigma Phi, is indefinitely suspended for failure to meet certain obligations. The members of this fraternity individually will receive neither grades nor credits for their semester until the obligations of Epsilon Sigma Phi are adjusted to the satisfaction of the Faculty Board on Student Organizations.

These are the only two matters on which there was definite action, but several other things were discussed and will be considered. It is expected that at the next meeting noteworthy steps will be taken.

FACULTY PLAN OPENING PARTY

All Members and Wives Invited to Affair; Business Staff Also Invited

MARYGROVE, IS SCENE

Elaborate plans have just been completed for the first official faculty party of the year. The event will be held next Saturday evening, Dec. 6th, in the gymnasium of Marygrove College. A committee composed of the following members of the Faculty Wives club have spent considerable time in arranging an evening of fun and frolic for all; Mrs. Peter Altman, Mrs. B. N. Blakeslee, Mrs. George Derry, Mrs. William Hawkes, Mrs. R. E. Lawrence, Mrs. William Mayrose and Mrs. McClear.

An invitation has been extended to all members of the U. of D. Faculty, to the wives of all the married members and the members of the business staff in each department to attend the affair. A earnest effort has been made by the committee to reach every one of the above mentioned but due to the fact that all the addresses are not available, complete success was not attained. Anyone who did not receive notice by mail is hereby asked to consider this article their invitation.

In order that expenses may be met readily the committee is asking a small fee of fifty cents per person. The program will include dancing, cards, conversation, music and readings. There will be something to suit each taste. Also in an effort to expedite matters all are requested to inform some member of the above committee of his or her invitation.

A group of dancers from the Denis Shawn studio in New York have been engaged.

Several affairs of this nature were given to and by the faculty last year and many entertaining and interesting evenings resulted. According to reports from the faculty all last year's efforts will be surpassed with the party Saturday night. They also add that its success in no small way depends upon one hundred per cent attendance.

FRATERNITIES DISCUSS PROPOSED AMENDMENT

Indebted Groups Would Be Suspended From Interfrat Council in Future; Nine Fraternities Announce Entry Into Basketball Race

KAPPA SIGMA DELTA REINSTATED BY COUNCIL

At the December meeting of the Interfraternity Council last Monday night an amendment to the constitution was proposed. The amendment is this: "No representative shall be permitted to attend any meeting of the council if his fraternity is indebted to the council for any fines or assessments." The amendments has been recorded and will be voted upon at the next two meetings of the Council before it can become a rule. Up to date no provision has been made for collecting from the fraternities in arrears.

Nine fraternities announced their intention of entering a representative basketball team in the Interfraternity Council League. Several others may affiliate themselves with the League within a few days. It was decided by the council that players on the Varsity squad should be ineligible for competition in the league.

Kappa Sigma Delta, an Engineering fraternity, was reinstated in the council by an unanimous vote of the members present. Alpha Epsilon Pi, national fraternity, was commended by the council for the work and money they have expended for the cup to be awarded each year to the winner of the Detroit-Michigan State football classic.

A motion was carried that each fraternity be assessed fifty cents for expenses incurred in mailing the constitution and the minutes of each meeting. This is payable at the next meeting.

Other topics discussed included setting a definite date for rushing, financial statements of fraternities, and the standing of Epsilon Sigma Phi.

The discussion for establishment of a rushing period was tabled after the engineering fraternities objected to a plan that would have restricted them to one rush period. Since the technical school is divided into two sections it is making it difficult for the Engineering fraternities to select pledges.

Financial statements from fraternities who have houses are handled by their respective faculty advisors. Epsilon Sigma Phi has already been suspended by the council, as well as by the Faculty Board.

The minutes of the December meeting will be mailed within a few days.

CROWD FROLICS AT SOPH DANCE

Annual Snowball, With Over 600 Couples Attending, Is Success

Thanksgiving dinners and vacations are over and once again all "youse" students are back at the old books. But it is not an unhappy group of students that answered the first bell last Monday morning, for during the four-day recess a class dance was given by the Sophomores at the University of Detroit, and to show that spirit really exists around this campus, 600 couples attended the Sophomore Snowball last Friday evening in the beautiful Fountain Ballroom of the Masonic Temple. Rev. Joseph Scott, S.J., and Prof. Daniel J. Moynihan have given their final statements on the most successful class dance ever staged by a class of this university.

FINANCIAL SUCCESS

Many of the dances held at this school have been called successful, but one has to go a long way to exceed the Soph Snowball. Financially, it was a great success for, considering the depression period, the lack of jobs for students working their way through college, and the intervening of a vacation that sent many students home for the holidays, the affair will be long remembered.

However, financial successes are not always the most important feature of a class dance. Mr. Moynihan, faculty advisor for the Soph Snowball, has the following to say about the event of the 1930 fall school year: "The most remarkable thing about the Snowball was its success from a social standpoint. Considering the size of the crowd, I have never witnessed a better expression of harmony, friendliness, and school spirit exhibited at any dance. The feature that I want to call special attention to was the orderly spirit of the affair and the total absence of anything that even showed roughness. I want to especially pay tribute to the boys of this university for the way that the dance was conducted."

COMMITTEE CO-OPERATED

U. of D.-U. of M. Debate Postponed

The debate that was to be held with the University of Michigan this week has been called off. There is no definite date. Prof. Baldwin Bacon announced that it would be held some time after Christmas or during the second semester.

In a previous issue it was announced that plans were nearly completed for the debate. Since then it has been learned that the subject to be debated was not agreed upon by both schools when the schedule was made up.

ANNUAL RETREAT SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED FOR UNIVERSITY

Father Sullivan to Conduct Retreats of Both Engineer Sections Before Holidays; Separate Services For A. & S. Seniors in Faculty Chapel

Particulars for the annual retreats of Catholic students were announced today by Rev. Joseph Scott, S.J., dean of men. Attendance at these retreats is stipulated in the Student Handbook.

It reads, "Near the middle of the scholastic year retreats for the Catholic students attending the various colleges are held. These retreats are held on three consecutive days from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. Except where excused by the dean of men or his assistant, attendance is obligatory for Catholic students. Therefore, Catholic students engaged in part time work, etc., outside of school hours must arrange in advance to be free for ALL the exercises of the retreat. At the conclusion of the retreat all are expected to approach the sacraments."

SECTION B FIRST

The retreat for the Section B Engineers will be held on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, December 17, 18 and 19. Father John J. Sullivan, S.J., headmaster of Elett Hall, St. Xavier U., will be in charge of this retreat. He will also conduct the retreat for the Section A Engineers, which will be held on January 7, 8, and 9.

A. & S. SENIORS SEPARATE

A separate retreat will be conducted for the A. and S. seniors. It will be held in the Faculty Chapel, with Father Joseph Conroy in charge, on February 2, 3, and 4. Father Conroy of Loyola University, Chicago, is known throughout the country as a retreat master. The other classes of the A. and S. will have their retreat at the same time, but it will be separate.

February 9, 10 and 11 are the dates for the annual retreat for the C. and F. college students. The retreat master for this retreat has not been selected as yet.

All Catholic students are warned to make arrangements to attend their respective retreats.

STOREN, MASSUCCI, BARBOUR AND BROWN PLAY FINAL GAME FOR TITANS

With the home season completed, and only one more encounter remaining on the season's schedule, it might be well to take stock of the season's loss. Old Man Graduation has contented himself this year with a minimum. However, he is taking first quality. U. of D. loses four men this year, everyone of whom is regarded as a typical fighting Titan. Considered collectively, they came, they played, they brought fame and glory and added prestige to the Titans, and in doing so have carved for themselves niches in the U. of D. hall of fame. Their records and deeds are bound to remain in the memories of all Titan followers.

ALSO THE "BEADLE"

The second one who is leaving us is Edmund J. Barbour, better known as "Beadle," also as "Eddie." Eddie came to us from St. Rita's High, of Chicago, with quite a record for a boy. Three years of football as quarterback, three of basketball as guard, manager of the baseball team, active in dramatics, president of the Senior class, partially make up this record. But to note his deeds here. With all due regard to his teammates there is a consensus of opinion amongst followers that Eddie is the best quarterback of the present Titans.

STOREN'S FINALE

Captain Bill Storen prepped at U. of D. High. There he played the game as quarterback. Coming here, he had no trouble making the Frosh squad as full-back. The fact that he has held down this position fully for the last two years, and partially for the year before speaks for itself. But to supplement this ability, the squad thought enough of it and of his personal traits to elect him captain this season. He is the type of man known for his consistency, and possesses that spark of something which makes others place confidence in him. No wonder that he is captain, that he is popular with players and fans alike; no wonder that he has just been honored by being given honorable mention as an All-American full-back. Bill is a letter man for '28, '29 and, of course, '30.

The third man lost to the squad is Neil J. E. Brown. He was a high school mate of our great Maloney who influenced him to enroll here. At St. Alban's High, Vermont, he played an end for four years on the football squad and the same number on the basketball team, two of which he was captain. He also is a baseball player. Those who know Neil here can hardly believe that in his prep days he was a sort of Beau Brummel. In his Senior year he even led the Junior-Senior Ball.

But those are things of the past and what we know of Neil here is that for the last three years he has been a regular on our Titan machine, two as an end and this one as a guard. Tall, rangy and fast, Neil has used these to the best advantage in offense and defense. He has always played a good game and has always been consistent, that is what made him of double value to the team. The gridders like to relate how Brown dashed out on to the field at the State game only to hear the gun go off for the half. But "Brownie" was always that way—ambitious and eager.

AND MASSUCCI

The last, but certainly not the least, of the quartet leaving us, is Arthur Benito Massucci, Ashtabula, Ohio. Claims Art as its own anu, rightly it should for he was one of the greatest athletes turned out from Ashtabula High. A fullback on the eleven for four years, and captain one of those, a catcher on the nine for a like number, guard team, two of which he was captain. He also is a baseball player. Those who know Neil here can hardly believe that in his prep days he was a sort of Beau Brummel. In his Senior year he even led the Junior-Senior Ball.

in itself, especially when considered in the light of the Titan schedule for the past three years. And it is an achievement when it is known that he did this with only one good arm, for in his Sophomore year his left arm was injured and since then it has given him much grief besides being practically useless.

Only unusual ability, an iron constitution and a strong determination to finish what he started out to do secured him a regular position on the squad. "Mac" was always considered a strong point in the line both offensively and defensively and he was always a fighter. "Mac" will long be remembered by all real football fans and especially by the students who know him and of him.

LOYOLA THE LAST

All four of these are making the trip to New Orleans for their last battle in the ranks of the Titans. Somehow one cannot but help notice their eagerness and enthusiasm for that battle, and this only brings out the fact that they have never tired of the game for it must be remembered that they came here with the same eagerness and enthusiasm. Undoubtedly they will play a great game—their final bow to the Titan followers.

To an impartial recording of all campus news. To Catholic journalism. To inaugurate and uphold Titan tradition. To an understanding and unification between departments.

False Impressions

Many people, including those connected with other school systems, have incorrect ideas about the nature and instruction of the University of Detroit. Let it be known that it is a private institution so far as its upkeep is concerned, and public in its service and instruction.

Neither do its professors attempt to teach philosophy and put St. Augustine on a pedestal as a model for all times. True he was a leader and a great mind. He is recognized as such today by thinkers of all creeds.

The University of Detroit is not behind or unconscious of modern times. It realizes the needs of the students. It is intent upon giving the student as much individual attention as it can.

Anent The Band

The appearance of the well-drilled and perfectly disciplined Michigan State band between the halves of the game on November 22 brought home the fact that the University of Detroit band, while a distinct credit to the university, is not all that it could be.

Despite the fact that the leader, manager and members of the Titan band have worked especially hard to form a musical organization which would equal if not better other university bands there has been little interested support given.

With these facts in mind it is difficult to understand why more students do not join the band, why the deserved and necessary aid is not forthcoming, or why a regular band class is not established in the curriculum.

In the face of things the band has done remarkably well and this opportunity is taken to extend our heartiest congratulations. Throughout the year compliments of a high order have been received from universities where the band has made appearances.

Make It Merry For All

In just a few weeks another Christmas will be here. This year to a greater extent than ever it will be necessary to put forth our every effort in order that the poor and needy may enjoy Christmas as they should.

There is little doubt that everyone is willing to help, but it takes initiative to do something really practical. One fraternity has set the pace with a worthwhile plan. Its members are endeavoring to launch an extensive sale of newspapers, the proceeds of which will go directly to charity.

CAMPUS CHATTER

By JAMES TROESTER and DAVID McHARDY

Somehow or other somebody always seems to be running into a difficulty. This actually happened at the game last Saturday. Jack Cahalan left Wyandotte so dressed that the cold rain, sleet or snow, would present no terrors for him.

In order to keep his ears warm, he very wisely put on an aviator's helmet. So interested was he in dressing warmly that when he got to the field he found that he had left his ticket at home.

Johnny Trudell tried awfully hard to start an argument in metaphysics class the other day. He raised the question: Resolved: "That the girls of California have a lower standard of intelligence than those of Michigan, and that they have no real appreciation of manly beauty."

Those slippery streets are providing pretty good excuses for the chronic late-comers, but... when this particular student, we haven't yet found out his department, used this as an excuse, he was met with a fast one.

Economics note: To those who send the Varsity News to their friends every week, a cent and a half postage may be saved by using a folder instead of an envelope.

The height of tact and diplomacy was reached during the period when the fraternities were active in securing neophytes. One brother walked up to a prospective candidate whom he knew to be fairly well off in the way of the goods of the world, saying, "We'd like to have you join our fraternity. You know we want a frat house..."

Stories have come to us from every corner of the campus about the boys who decided to make use of the hunting season during their holiday period. Especially interesting is the one about the fellow who went all the way to Mackinac

FRATERNITY NEWS

Delta Pi Kappa, journalistic fraternity, will hold its next meeting Thursday night, Dec. 4, at 8:00 at the Seward Hotel. There will be an abundance of business to review, beside the pledging problem.

Delta Sigma Pi, national Commerce and Finance fraternity, will sponsor the fourth annual testimonial banquet honoring the Titan football team and coaches, Dec. 16, in the main ballroom of the Book Cadillac Hotel.

Beginning Dec. 7, Epsilon Tau, local Jewish fraternity, will be known as the Alpha Delta chapter of Phi Alpha, national. This chapter will be the twenty-eighth on the national roll of that fraternity.

Theta Alpha Sigma fraternity held its first smoker at its house, Tuesday evening, November 25. In the course of the evening, there were talks by the officers and card games. An evening replete with lively entertainment reached its climax with a much-appreciated buffet lunch.

Bob Stefanowski, pledge chairman, introduced the following guests: Albert Assessor, Bernard J. Wemhoff, John Weinand, Frank Cox, Ray Cotter, Bob Diehl, Jim Burke, Jack Unger, Harry Van Matre, B. J. Willett, Rob Stoiber, Joe Brisson, J. C. Callahan, Rus. Muecke, George J. Armbruster, Joseph Kest, Huber Hoffman, Allan A. Downing, Martin L. Bettinger, Vic Hartzell, Donald L. Hupp.

WHO'D BULLIVE IT

By JAMES BRENNAN

TAPS

By T. A. POLLEY. The University of Chicago is now sponsoring a plan whereby students are allowed to carry as many hours as they wish, and can take examinations at any time they desire.

Education is becoming a week-end affair. California and Florida papers will run ads: Come to La Hacienda, stay two weeks, acquire a sun-tan and a sheepskin.

You can drop into the U. of C. over the week-end and rip off a semester's work. A fellow can explain his tardiness on a date by telling the girl he was held up fifteen minutes taking a history course.

The bloke who comes late to class will not merit a third of one cut, but will lose 14 credit hours. What a boon to the boys who leave school under pressure. Stop off on the way home and bring your folks a new model diploma.

The gent without a degree who applies for a job and is turned down on that account can romp back ten days later and square things. The next step is to have degrees radioed. The plan was tried once whereby the students heard their eight o'clock lectures in bed, using a radio.

It was discarded because the profs. couldn't get the satisfaction of waking up the students. How easy to cut a radio class. Just turn off the alarm and there you are.

With television coming in, the plan might be tried again, but net in co-educational schools. First pee-wee golf courses, and now pee-wee college courses. The lad who gets through in three years should be credited with a birdie.

Ralph Boone, native son of White Pigeon, tells the romantic tale of the naming of that hamlet. It seems an Indian, by name, Wahba Heemeer, ran all the way from Detroit to warn the people of an impending attack, whereupon he dropped dead. According to the modern light, he ran to White Pigeon to warn the people that Henry Ford was going to make flivvers, and when he saw where he had run to, he dropped dead. Thanks, Bayard! These expected Austin jokes that will fill up these columns for the next two or three weeks should be sent in as soon as possible. There isn't any prize for sending one along, unless getting your name in print is considered such.

To warm up to the subject, we present the latest joke on the ban-tam mailboxes: Hal: "I understand there's a new baby at your house." It: "What ever gave you that idea?" H: "Oh, I saw you walking down the street with a teething ring in your hand." Sis: "That wasn't a teething ring, that was a new tire for my Austin."

Christmas Gifts Now Available at Union

In an interview with Charles Mengold, the manager of the Union house, it was learned that the Union has a very attractive stock of Christmas gifts which would please even the most fastidious. There are bracelets, slave chains, and vanity cases, all of which are adorned with the university crest. Among the many gifts available for men are signet rings, watch charms that would please the most discriminating buyer, many types of Detroit pins, and also a large supply of pennants and university stationery.

NATIONAL SOCIETY TO INSTALL CHAPTER

M. S. C. Alumnus Writes on the State Game

This week, we reprint in full a letter written by M. L. Joslin, a graduate of Michigan State College of the class of '30 that appeared in the Letter Box of the Detroit News on November 26. In it, Joslin gives the State viewpoint on the Titan-Spartan game a few weeks ago, as well as their hope for future games between the teams of the two schools.

It is not very often that we take up so much of our limited space publishing a reprint, but this letter is sufficient justification. It seems definitely to settle all questions concerning Detroit-State classics.

Joslin's letter reads:

"The State-Detroit game Saturday was a gridiron classic. Two dynamic, highly-tensioned and powerful teams met and the final result was a 0-0 deadlock.

Detroit U. is to be complimented upon their display of courage, sportsmanship and especially clean play. Never before have I seen Detroit U. teams play as clean a brand of football as they played at East Lansing Saturday afternoon. Very few penalties were called on either team for rough play.

The University of Detroit proved to a number of doubtful individuals that they are worthy rivals for any team in the country, not only through the fine play of the team, but also through the high caliber, fine sportsmanlike attitude of the Detroit rooters. I, for one, hope that Michigan State and U. of D. will continue to be the friendly athletic rivals they appeared to be Saturday. Here's hoping that this game may become a tradition."

The Titans have an opportunity in their final game Saturday to prove that they are a team that can "come back". The sporting public loves nothing more than seeing an aggregation, after tasting defeat or deadlock, refuse to allow these unfortunate ending contests to break their fighting morale and finish the year strong.

Dorais' men started their year by winning four straight games. Then came an equal number of setbacks and scoreless ties. In at least two of these, it was the utter lack of the luck element that spelled defeat. Yet the Titans showed that they had not given up fighting by downing the Georgetown Hilltoppers last Saturday afternoon.

Loyola will not be easy. The Wolves have an eleven that has lost but one game in nine and they wish to even the count with Detroit as far as games won is concerned. So far, each team has won on its home field. Can the Titans break this jinx this year?

Loyola has secured their two outstanding backs as assistant coaches to give the regulars additional inspiration to play their best. These men are William "Bucky" Moore, better known as the "Dixie Flyer", and Junior Lopez, the Wolves' ambidextrous passer. It was Moore who was mainly responsible for the worst defeat ever given a Dorais-coached Detroit team, the 38-0 whitewash in 1926.

30-YARD PASS TO BERG NETS FIRST SCORE

Cogan and Storen Effective in Backfield; Reserves Show Defensive Power

BARBOUR IS SUCCESSFUL

Slush, snow, sleet, showers, and splashes greeted the University of Detroit and Georgetown football teams last Saturday afternoon before 6,000 blanketed, seemingly frozen, fans at Dinan Stadium, while the four Seniors, Capt. Storen, Art Massucci, Eddy Barbour, and Neil Brown, received salutes, shouts, songs, screams, shakes, shifts, shivers, shuffles, sighs, smites, socks, and spills in their last appearance before a Detroit crowd. The Titan eleven scored another victory over a Georgetown team, 12 to 0.

FOURTH VICTORY

Football relations between Detroit and Georgetown are now in favor of the U. of D., with four victories in six encounters. But it so happens that Georgetown has scored more points in her two wins than has Detroit in her four victories. Statistics show that the Washington gridgers have amassed 82 points to their rivals' 75. Georgetown under the guidance of Tommy Mills, who has just finished his first season as coach of the Hoyas, needed a victory last Saturday to give them more than a 500 per cent rating, but their efforts were thwarted, so Coach Mills had to be satisfied with 5 victories and 5 defeats. On the other hand, Coach Dorais' grid machine made its best stand in Detroit with 5 victories, 2 ties, and 2 defeats.

FIRST SINCE OCT. 17

The U. of D. 1930 football team, which has shown itself as not being a lover of November, won its first victory since the West Virginia contest, Friday night, Oct. 17, and it also made its first touchdown from scrimmage since the Mountaineer victory. The Titans, quarterbacked by the veteran Eddy Barbour, exhibited real signs of the team that ran rough-shod over Adrian, Albion, Grinnell, and West Virginia. The driving attack, despite the handicapping conditions, was aggressive and diversified, while the passing offense was even better, for the Titans completed 6 out of 17 attempts for a total gain of 104 yards. It was Barbour's clever calling of signals that resulted in two successful passes and while one gave the U. of D. its first touchdown, the other prepared the way for a second.

BERG SCORES

No points were garnered in the first half, so the old custom upheld by both Detroit and Georgetown in their six-game series of doing all the scoring in the last half was again witnessed. The Titans first touchdown was scored from the 41-yard line towards the end of the third period. Detroit received the ball in that position of the field as a result of Scalzi's forced punt from his own goal line. On the first play Roy Cogan, receiving the ball from George Howell, calmly drew back his arm and shot a long forward spiral to Louie Berg, who caught the ball while on the run and scampered across the goal from the 11-yard line. Berg was not even touched as he sprinted down the sidelines for a touchdown. Cogan's kick for the extra point was blocked.

Forward passes had a lot to do with the 80-yard march for the second touchdown in the final quarter. Taking the ball on Georgetown's 20-yard stripe, Eddy Barbour, playing his last game before home fans, directed his team to another score. On the initial play O'Neill swept end for 7 yards and Capt. Storen added three more through the line for a first down. Lou Berg added another first down when he eluded opposing linesmen to gain 15 yards around right end before he was tackled by Georgetown's secondary defense. A pass, O'Neill to Joe the final practice drive before the opening of the season on Jan. 2.

It is my prediction that despite the fact that only two regulars are back this season, Brazil will develop a real team this year. He is building slowly and surely and is building his team around Captain Cy Aaron, one of the best college guards in this section, and Ed. Chapp, who has improved considerably since last year. I miss my guess if we do not have a winning team this year.

Effective Pair Drill Titan Line

Former All-Americans Are Invaluable Gridiron Mentors

A boy with a B. B. gun in his possession is usually a source of trouble to his neighbors. The University of Detroit also has a B. B. weapon which it uses to worry its opponents. This weapon is the well-known combination of Boeringer and Brown. As for their effectiveness one has but to look at our record for the last three years. Together they are a great pair, individually, they are just as great.

"Bud" Boeringer prepped at Creighton High in St. Paul, Minn. He attended St. Thomas College there for a year and then put in three years at Notre Dame. In his last year there, besides being captain, he was the unanimous choice of the football authorities for All-American center. His feats on the gridiron were many and mighty and heralded far and wide.

BUD A GREAT ATHLETE

Besides shining in football, Bud is quite a hockey player. When not playing football, Bud was shining in this pastime. At first glance, one would guess that he likes and lives the outdoors, and this guess would be right, for Bud likes nothing better than fishing, hunting and skiing. Besides teaching football and hockey, Bud spends some of his hours in the classroom as a history instructor. Here as well as in the sports, he knows his stuff.

Bud is popular not only with the players, but with the entire student body and faculty for he is a picturesque character helping to mould the destiny of our school.

BROWN ALSO ALL-AMERICAN

In comparison to Boeringer, Harvey Brown seems an opposite type. We first heard of Brown at Notre Dame where despite his small stature and his weight of 160 pounds, he was captain of the squad and an All-American choice for guard. He entered St. Louis medical school and while studying there, he coached the football eleven. Then he came to Detroit to serve his internship and while so doing became an assistant to Dorais. Now he is a full-fledged doctor but football is his hobby. His office is conveniently located near the school so that he can easily coordinate the two duties.

Besides being an assistant line coach, "Doc" looks over the serious injuries of the boys. His medical knowledge enables him to understand the powers and capacities of the candidates, and thus he is of double benefit to the school. Detroit is fortunate in landing and keeping two such men as Boeringer and Brown. Their natures, their knowledge, and their methods are responsible for the line defense and offense of the Titan squads of the last four years. Many a Titan star has not only learned the fundamental tactics of football from these men, but also the higher ones.

Monday afternoon "Bud" Boeringer returned from Providence Hospital where he had been confined for ten days. His absence was not only a great loss to the squad, but "Bud" himself missed the Georgetown game, for which he had been drilling the boys. The students and his many friends will again witness his vigorous presence and hear his ready wit. Fully recovered, he will again whip the boys in shape for the last encounter of the season and will accompany them south to see that they do things right. The Boeringer-Brown combine, lost in Providence Hospital, is our own once again.

CANDIDATES PRESS VETERAN BASKETEERS FOR POSITIONS

Many Are Making Strong Bids For Places On Varsity Cage Squad; Mentors Drilling Players in Fine Points of Team Play and Competition

FOOTBALL MEN TO JOIN SQUAD NEXT WEEK

For the past three weeks coach Lloyd Brazil has been drilling a squad of hopefuls in the things that a good eager should know. First the squad was drilled upon the fundamentals of the game: Passing, pivoting, dribbling, shooting the various kinds of shots, and taking positions. After the squad had been cut three times the four remaining teams started learning the intricacies of team play and are now, quite, well versed in that angle.

KEEN COMPETITION

The four lettermen, Captain Cy Aaron, Ed. Chapp, Les Butcher, and Fred Goodrich, compose the nucleus upon which Brazil is building a team. But it looks as though Aaron is the only man sure of his position. Pressing Les Butcher for the left forward position are "Subby" Subiowski, "Scotty" McFauln, the midget of the squad, and Aitchison. The fast, slim right forward, Fred Goodrich, is having plenty of trouble beating out Doyle Hamacher, the left-handed basket tosser, and Roger Law, who looks good enough for any quintet. Ed. Chapp, with the fifteen pounds he has taken on since last season, looks like a real veteran this year. But the trackman is having plenty of opposition from Kimble, who towers six feet, three inches. Cy Aaron will probably play one of the guards, while Seymour, Phillips, and Jack Unger, who tosses baskets between football practices, are fighting for the other position.

ADDITIONAL POWER

Schultz, Iszzo, Evans, and Masacak, the first named a guard, and the latter three, forwards, are

Basket Practice Held by Co-Eds

Co-ed basketball opened officially Tuesday evening with the first practice of the season. Monica Kondratowicz has been appointed captain for the current year, with Margaret Meyers assisting as business manager. Tuesday and Thursday evenings have been selected as the regular practice periods. The Tuesday night sessions are to be held at the Franklin School from 7 o'clock to 9. The Thursday night sessions are to be at the Fitzgerald School from 7 to 9. James Troester, Senior in the College of Arts and Sciences, has offered his services as co-ed coach.

A. A. U. Is Sponsoring Charity Track Meet

The Michigan branch of the A. A. U. is hard at work trying to arrange a track meet, the proceeds of which will be devoted to charity. If their present plans materialize, some of the best running talent in the country will be brought together in Detroit. As yet the place and time and final details are not known. Such a project should be encouraged and pushed because besides providing funds to the needy, it will give track teams a chance to get organized and the runners a chance for competition.

Grid Stars Of Past Teams Recalled

Dinan Stadium Has Seen Titan Stars Flash and Fade

The wintry winds sing on Dinan Field. It lies deserted and a vast silence seems to enshroud it. Deserted, yes, of things human, but the unseen presence of the cold and howling bleak winds of winter blow over its turf; they eddy about the seats; they sing through the bleachers. Likewise, it is silent of sounds, human or mechanical, but there exists a rustle of dead leaves and eddying paper. It is as the dome of a vast sepulchre. In place of cadavers in their resting place it is littered with the dead hopes and aspirations of institutions; of fighting machines; the deeds of mentors and gridsters once done rest there.

The autumnal tone no longer lingers, the varied colors are gone, the winds of November have ceased to blow; winter clouds bedeck the sky. Yet this emptiness, this bleakness, this rustle of debris and dirge of wind seem to unite and make a final attempt to bring forth what is natural to a stadium—people, heroes, action.

MEMORIES RECALL HEROES

One can almost see the ghosts of the teams and heroes of yesteryear scamper in a panorama of action. Memories loom, and lo! there surge forth a host of Titan warriors. Adorned in red and white, strong of arm and nimble of foot, one can not forget their names and faces, sometimes grim and determined; sometimes gay and laughing as they once again engage in deeds of prowess.

ALL-TIME TITANS

There are the names and clubs which dedicated the stadium in '22. Ellis, Sonnenberg, Gillis, MacNamara are the personnel. Then in rapid succession come the outstanding Titans of the following years, and, of course, their outstanding opponents. For 1922, Capt. Larry Welch, Curran, Loomis, Bachor, Phillipart, Horgan, Wegner; for 1923, Maher, Flannery, Schlickemeyer, Caniff, Coyle, Jaglowitz, Des Roches; for 1924, McNamara, Bob Maniere, Molihargy, Gallagher, Rositer, Brennan; for 1925, Shea, Larned, Gallagher, Janosky. For the next three years the squad which reached its peak in '28 might be mentioned. So, to go on, Long, Phelan, Richards, Goodnow, "Cowboy" Connell, Ruhlin, Ryan, Vachon, Lloyd Brazil, Lardner, O'Halloran,

Janosky, Lee Hart. For '28 the following are also there: Buckman, Anderson, Shea, Barron, Olshove, Maley, Maloney, Masacek. For '29 the following: Young, Horgan, Nader, Lee Hart, Honey, Zettel, Navin. Coming to the present season, the whole squad is there and still in a fresh and going mood. To mention some of the ghostly elevens who roam there we can a 140-pounder and brother of Bill Moore, assistant to Shaughnessy. Sam Zelden and Joe Tetlow are expected to start at the half-back positions. The fullback sector is filled by Arnold Lopez, brother of Junior Lopez, and the teams leading ball-carrier and passer. The entire backfield only averages 162 pounds but they are all fast and elusive.

Head Coach Dorais concludes his practice this afternoon prior to the trip south. Against Loyola he plans to follow the same policy that he did in the Georgetown game. The Titans' motto is to use strategy, hold on to the ball, keep it away from your opponents, and wait for a "break". The weather was too dangerous to risk anything last Saturday, and while the climate down in New Orleans is expected to be warm and dry Coach Dorais does not want to take any chances. "Loyola is dangerous," he says, "and they are the type of team that will be primed for our arrival next Saturday afternoon."

Two styles of football will be seen this week-end. Coach Clark Shaughnessy has his own style of playing which he drills his men to follow, while Coach Dorais uses the Notre Dame formations. The Titan mentor also expects to start his "shock troops" against the Wolfpack for it is fairly satisfied with their showing against Georgetown.

LEAVE THURSDAY

The U. of D. grid squad will leave Detroit tomorrow at 7:15 a. m. and arrives in New Orleans Friday morning at 10 o'clock. So Friday afternoon the Titans will work-out in the Loyola Stadium. They leave for Detroit Sunday evening.

The following men will make the trip to New Orleans: Ends, John Hackett, Joe Beer, Jack Cicotte, Harvey Wrathell, and Edwin Campau; tackles, Art Massucci, John Metras, Harold Shimmer, and Bill Warren; guards, Joe Weise, Tony Nader, George Hess, and Neil Brown; centers, Bill Fitzpatrick and George Howell; quarterbacks, Eddie Barbour, Chris Schearer and Bob Parsaca; left halfbacks, Bill O'Neill and Roy Cogan; right half Louis Berg and Mark Ctoren; fullbacks, Capt. Bill Storen and Louis White.

Art Massucci, Neil Brown, Eddie Barbour and Capt Storen will make their last appearance in U. of D. football uniform against Loyola Saturday afternoon.

Beer, gained 14 yards to place the oval on Georgetown's 41-yard mark.

Again, it appeared as if the Titans were headed goalward, but then it seemed that the opponents would rise and repulse the Titans advance, as occurred in the Marquette and Fordham games. A 15-yard penalty aided the offensive Detroiters to give them another first down. Lou Berg, who has proven that he is the most consistent ground gainer in the red and white backfield, netted the necessary yardage to carry the ball to the 20-yard mark. Eddy Barbour showed his skill once more and when a successful pass, Barbour to Bill Storen, was completed, the oval was resting 6 yards from a touchdown. Detroit received a 5-yard penalty for stalling. Storen and Berg gained 9 yards between them and on the next play Capt. Bill Storen made his last touchdown before the shouting, shivering Detroit fans when he plunged through center behind the driving power of Howell, Nader, and Massucci on the 2-yard stripe.

"Rocky" Parsaca was inserted at this time to replace Berg at halfback and Shearer took over the quarterback job that Barbour so nobly vacated. Parsaca's attempt for the drop-kick was blocked.

LAST THREAT

Georgetown's last threat was made in the fourth quarter when an end run, a pass, a Detroit 15-yard penalty and three line plays moved the ball from their own 20 to the Titans 40-yard line.

For the first time this year Coach Dorais started his second team. This move proved to good advantage for the Titan reserves held the Georgetown gridders on five scoring opportunities. Shearer fumbled on the first play and Brennan recovered for the easterners on the 15-yard mark. Again, Capt. Morris intercepted Cogan's pass on Detroit's 40-yard line and ran to the 25 before he was tackled. Here, Georgetown launched another attack that was climaxed on the 15-yard mark when they lost the ball on downs. Even though the Washington lads did scare the Titans "shock troops" they tired in their efforts and Coach Dorais rushed in his regulars about three minutes after the second quarter started. But that ended Georgetown's threats and Detroit once again returned victor over their traditional foes from Georgetown University.

The U. of D. seemed to be a rejuvenated team last Saturday with the new insertions. George Howell, who has been out with an injured knee since the beginning of the season, but who has staged a comeback since the Marquette contest, played a very commendable brand of football at the pivot position against Georgetown. He was always breaking through the Hoyas' line to halt running threats.

Tommy Mills Is Colorful Figure

Georgetown Coach Has Had Varied Career as Mentor

Acting and strategy are two of the many characteristics of the Georgetown coach, Tommy Mills. He is one of 10 changes made in the coaching staffs of the big universities of the country. To date he has battled with one of the toughest schedules in Georgetown's history and is about to conclude the 10-game series in Detroit this Saturday. He has a record of 5 victories and 4 defeats. So the best that Coach Mills can accomplish in his first year as coach at Georgetown is break even.

Tommy Mills, a thick-set grizzly personage, was one of Knute Rockne's master strategists at Notre Dame for the past three seasons. The notable "Rock" has branded the present Hilltopper mentor as "the smartest football scout he ever saw."

GOES ON STAGE

Mills was graduated from Beloit College after which he went to the University of Wisconsin firmly bent on studying law. But the lure of the stage got him and he accepted an offer to play in New York with Otis Skinner.

The highlights of Broadway did not please Mills because of the unhappiness that it seemed to cause him. An offer of a teaching and coaching position in an Omaha high school, made to him six months before he joined the Skinner cast, claimed him next and right in the midst of his discouragement he packed up all his paraphernalia and boarded a train for Omaha.

While in Omaha he found time to play in a local stock company and also in the moving pictures, but he soon lost that interest and accepted a head coaching job at Creighton University.

In his 5 years at Creighton, Mills brought the Omaha school up from a nonentity in mid-western athletics to a dark horse and constant threat, his basketball team winning 72 out of 76 games. Then Beloit called him back.

CONFERENCE CHAMPS

At this little Wisconsin college he performed another miracle when he transformed a consistent loser to a battling champion that held the conference championship for three seasons. His 1922 eleven defeated Northwestern. In 1925 he stormed into South Bend and only by a last-minute break did Notre Dame manage to defeat the Beloit gridders.

In 1926 Mills answered a call of Knute Rockne and for two years he coached wrestling boxing, and varsity football at Notre Dame. He then took over the Freshmen squad for a year.

Now Tommy Mills is at Georgetown and he will make his first appearance in Detroit since the 1927 Notre Dame game. Mills is undoubtedly clever and full of football tricks. Knowing this, one should not be surprised if he succeeds in pulling a "fast one" on Coach Dorais in their encounter Saturday.

alumni, and friends the most enjoyable dance of their careers. Mr. Moynihan also says that their cooperation and spirit of personal sacrifice was never lacking.

Rev. Joseph Scott, S.J., dean of men, was thoroughly satisfied with the Soph Snowball. He says that, "the dance was one of the best conducted I ever witnessed."

The snowball fight between Ray Gorrell's Country Club Orchestra and the dancers was a feature of the prom. The battle raged for about an hour while bystanders were enjoying many hearty laughs. Jack Teubert sang last year's opera songs, accompanied by the pianist, Joe Krelow.

The piece "Three Little Words" or "Sophomore Dance Friday" is still sung, but is now replaced by "After the Ball is Over." It will be a long time before the 1930 Soph Snowball is forgotten.

SCIENTIST PREDICTS AUTOMOBILES WILL DEVELOP BRAIN POWER---WHO KNOWS?

By ALPHONSE STAEGER

A furor was caused in scientific circles when Dr. Svend Narjissen announced at the recent conference of world-famed evolutionists in Stockholm, Sweden, that life was still springing spontaneously into being this day and age. The announcement is the more startling, coming from a pre-eminent evolutionist whose findings have materially contributed to the science in the last two decades. Dr. Narjissen made a further surprising assertion when he stated that this new life was building up from inorganic substances, that is mineral substances. And here is the most astonishing bit of news yet. The doctor opines that the auto may, millions of years hence, acquire life. This would not be so very improbable, the evolutionist maintains, since previous life began under less favorable conditions, whereas the automobile has in a short time already received a high degree of perfection from the human hand, being already capable of self-locomotion. AUTOBIOS (from the Greek word, life, plus auto) is the name given to this future creature.

"Remember this prediction is but our various theories and precepts carried to their ultimate logical conclusion," Narjissen said. Herewith we append a written picture of just how the automobile will look and act, according to Narjissen, as it reaches higher and higher perfection and gradually life.

First of all the auto must become self-providing. Therefore it will not be a very uncommon sight to see large herds of autos around oil wells lapping up the crude. This crude will then be digested and distilled, the gasoline being pumped to the carburetor, the oil and grease to all the moving parts, and the water (if any is present) to the radiator. Furthermore autos will burrow and browse in shallow ore mines, such as are found in northern Michigan. The iron and copper ores will then be digested into soluble compounds and carried by the oil stream, corresponding to an animal's blood circulation, to all the places where it will be needed. The ceaselessly palpitating gas and oil pump is analogous to the double-action heart of living beings.

The brains of the auto will develop under the dashboard, where at present all the gauges and meters are located. Here it will be close to the steering wheel and all other controls. Gradually the shell surrounding this brain will grow thicker and stronger to give sufficient protection to the delicate and fragile brain mechanisms. Most likely only autos moving on endless chains, as found in caterpillar tractors, will exist at such an advanced stage. Autos with just plain wheels will go into oblivion according to the law of survival of the fittest, for such autos could evidently not travel easily everywhere and over obstacles. All things automatically adjust themselves to the pressing needs, say a evolutionist precept. Thus if autos were to require foliage for sustenance, claws would develop on the endless chains so that the auto could climb trees. Not living on foliage however, an auto will scarcely need this, and hence no claws will develop.

Headlights will become eyes and the wire now carrying the current will become a nerve. Significant here is the fact that lately scientists have been experimenting with steel wires, treated with acids, to see if they would give some clue to the still mysterious nerve processes. It would seem that these experiments foreshadow the copper nerve of the future auto.

The steaming of the water in the radiator of an auto after a long, strenuous run clearly reminds one of perspiration attending man's prolonged and vigorous exercise. Seats and upholstery, no longer needed, will, of course, disappear. However, Dr. Narjissen is of the opinion that the female of the species will retain the rumble seat to carry the young about, just as the kangaroo carries its young in a pouch of its skin. Conversion will be carried on by means of signals from the horn. The windshield wiper will lose much of its clumsiness, in fact developing into a tiny hand to brush dirt and water out of the eyes. Furthermore the auto will be able to purr contentedly like a cat or roar like a lion by means of its exhaust. This exhaust pipe will form one nostril of the nose, and the intake pipe the other nostril. This nose will be located between the eyes and a little lower. After drinking a crude abounding a little too much in highly volatile hydrocarbon compounds, the auto may become drunk and backfiring will indicate that it is having hiccups.

Dr. Narjissen thus went into great detail, showing just how much like present day life the auto would be. The convention here split into two factions, one supporting Dr. Narjissen, the other rejecting the new theory as utterly fantastic and absurd.

When, however, Dr. Narjissen pointed out that his prophecy would have to be accepted as reasonable or else that all the evolutionist's beautifully worked out theories and precepts would have to be abandoned as unfeasible and false, the conference, in a body, admitted that Narjissen's prediction would most likely come to pass. Clearly the attendants of the conference acted wisely, for what happened a billion years ago (spontaneous generation) might happen again a billion years hence.
